SULZMANN DIES IN CLEVELAND

Former Councilman And Sheriff Long In Public Eye

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—A colorful career in Cleveland politics ended last night with the death of self-spoken John M. Sulzmann, 70, city councilman and former Cuyahoga county sheriff.

He was stricken with a heart attack Oct. 24.

A Democrat, Sulzmann spent nearly 40 years in public life. He first was elected to Cleveland city council in November, 1900. Leaving the council in 1930, he became a successful candidate for sheriff and served three terms.

Two years ago he returned to council. He sought renomination in last October's primary but was defeated.

During his tenure as sheriff, Sulzmann was the center of criticism for administrative policies of his office.

Surviving the veteran office holder are his widow and 11 children.

Russia "On Trial" Before League For Invading Finland

Soviet, However, May Resign
Of Own Accord; Reds And
Finns Report Victories

(By Associated Press.)

The League of Nations sat in judgment today on Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland.

But the exponent of collective security in the days when the league condemned other powers—Germany, Italy and Japan—was without a representative as the league council opened the proceedings on Finland's charges of aggression.

Today marked only the beginning of the "trial."

Plans called for the issue against Russia to be routed next week through the league assembly before any decision.

Allies Back Finns

Great Britain and France were reported ready to back the Finns as far as they wanted to go—even to expulsion of the Soviet Union from the league.

But in Moscow foreigners foresaw Russia quitting the league of her own accord.

Her drive on Finland, reinforced by proclamation of a blockade, continued with conflicting reports of effectiveness.

Ahead army communiques asserted advances had been made on the flanks and in a northern direction in one section of the Karelia isthmus zone.

Against this the Finns set their claim that 200,000 Russians had been repulsed in the Karelian isthmus fighting and 100 tanks disabled. The loss of Hogland island and withdrawal of defense troops on the central front were acknowledged.

Finland turned back upon Soviet Russia the latter's contention she was not at war with her neighbor in calling the blockade illegal.

Extends Mine Fields

Sweden extended her mine fields as a safety measure while Scandinavian shippers saw the Russian blockade, on top of the Allied blockade of Germany, further crippling their commerce.

Fresh British aid for Finland was reported in London in the form of 60,000 gas masks. Russia denied Finnish charges she was using gas.

In the war among Germany, Britain and France the sea continued to be the main theater of operations although the Nazi high command reported French dug-outs blown up on the western front and the French high command asserted renewed attacks by German patrols had been repulsed.

Sea Developments

Sea developments reported included:

In addition to a German submarine bombed and sunk by a British warplane in yesterday's operations, the British said at least one, and possibly two, more were down.

The German steamer Henning Oldendorf, 3,468, was captured by the British.

The British steamer Brandon, 6,668 tons, was torpedoed and sunk with nine crewmen lost and four injured.

An explosion destroyed the British steamer Corea, 751 tons, last night with eight persons missing.

The Japanese freighter Azuma Maru, 6,646 tons, was unreported after an SOS yesterday from Scottish waters.

The French steamer Dinard, 525 tons, went down with two of her crew missing after a collision.

The Danish steamer Scotia, 2,400 tons, was sunk in the North sea with 21 crewmen killed.

First Tularemia Case Of Season Is Reported Here

The first case of tularemia, or "rabbit fever" to appear in Salem since the start of rabbit hunting season, Nov. 8, was disclosed today.

Wesley Herbert, 82, of 1019 New-garden ave. is suffering from the disease, according to the diagnosis of the state health department.

Herbert is confined to his home, but his condition is not serious.

COTTAGE BURNS; FOUR ARE DEAD

Man Found Shot to Death
In Cemetery, Another
In Garage

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., Dec. 9.—Two women, a man and a two-year-old boy died in a flaming cottage on Lake Wissota, near here, today. The police expressed the opinion they had been slain.

A second man was found shot to death in an Eau Claire cemetery. The police expressed the opinion his death was linked with those in the cottage.

Fifth Body Found

A third man, Donald T. Cameron, about 30 or 35, who lived near here, was found shot to death in a garage near the Lake Wissota cottage. Chief of Police Edward Holtz said he had committed suicide.

Holtz said that Cameron had robbed a filling station in Chippewa Falls and wounded three men just shortly before the cottage fire was discovered and Cameron's body was found.

The bodies of the four persons in the cottage were charred but were believed to be those of Cameron's wife and son, and A. W. Wilk and Mrs. Dale McFete of Minneapolis.

The body found in the Eau Claire cemetery was that of Marshal Brenden of Eau Claire. He had been wounded twice in the head. The wounds were inflicted by bullets from a German type pistol. Such a weapon was found beside Cameron's body, Holtz reported.

Holtz said that Cameron held up the filling station about 12:45 a. m., slugged the attendant, Earl Redard, and took $20 from the cash drawer.

Redard staggered from the station and flagged down two motorists, Frank Babbitt and Sam Hoken of Bloomer. As the trio conversed, Redard told the police, Cameron leaped into his automobile, drew alongside the other car and fired two charges from a shotgun.

The pellets struck Redard in the abdomen, inflicting a serious wound. Hoken was wounded in one eye and Babbitt in the shoulder.

Cameron then fled.

The cottage fire was reported a half hour later. Police found the charred bodies of the four victims and Cameron.

Industrial Claims

List 4 Fatalities

Four fatalities were listed among county workers with the state industrial commission during October. It was reported today by Supt. Thomas P. Kearns.

Of the other claims, one showed permanent partial disability, 34 more than seven days lost time, 15 days seven days or less and 113 medical-only cases.

Total time loss as a result of the mishaps was 25,665 days.

Reflecting a steady upward trend in industrial employment, injury and occupational disease claims filed with the industrial commission showed an increase in October, the 17,427 claims filed being 780 more than the September record, Kearns said.

NEW TAX RATES ARE SUBMITTED

Poor Relief Maintenance
Adds One Mill To
Salem Figure

Salem city's 1939 tax rate will be increased from 22 to 23 mills, according to tentative rates which County Auditor Ross Fisher announced today that he was submitting to the tax commission of Ohio for approval.

The one-mill boost was caused by voters' approval of the poor relief levy which will net the city approximately $12,000 for 1940 relief needs.

New tax rates for Salem and other political sub-divisions in Columbiana county were determined by the county tax commission upon completion of budget hearings of cities, villages, townships and school districts.

A boost of one mill from 12 was made in the Kensington school district.

Yellow Creek Drops

The largest reduction is noted in Yellow Creek township where the rate is expected to be three mills under the former 21 mills taxation. East Liverpool municipality, with a gross tax valuation of $21,269,350, received the second largest reduction of two mills, while East Palestine, New Waterford village, Columbiana village and Columbiana school district were reduced one mill each.

New Waterford school district taxes were reduced from 19 to 17 1/2 mills; East Palestine school district from 19 to 18 1/2; Unity township school district from 17 to 16 1/2; Fairfield township school district from 16 to 15 1/2; Liverpool township school district from 15 to 14 1/2 mills.

Ten Prizes To Be Awarded In Yule Lighting Contest

Contest Open To Anyone; Deadline For Filing Of Entries Is Set At December 20

Ten prizes, valued collectively at $102.15, are offered to Salem district residents in the Christmas home lighting and decorating contest which will be held again this season under sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and The Salem News.

Considerable interest was shown in the contest last year and John Hochadel, this year's chairman, is hopeful that the event may attract an even larger number of entries.

"Don't be afraid your light displays won't win a prize," he said.

"Some of those most easily assembled were prize winners last Christmas." Displays may be simple and inexpensive and yet be original enough to win a prize.

The contest is open to anyone but the deadline for filing entries is Dec. 20, Hochadel warned.

An entry blank will appear in Monday's issue of The News. Clip it out. Write your name and address, and mail it to the Christmas lighting contest editor, The Salem News.

Here's a tip passed on for the benefit of those planning lighting displays: Avoid clashing colors, originality, artistry and beauty will count.

Displays, it is explained, may be arranged for the lawns, shrubbery and trees as well as dwellings. Many homes last Christmas were beautifully decorated.

Here's the list of prizes this year. Look them over and see if they don't form an attractive combination:

First, electric roaster, valued at $29.95; second, percolator set, $22.50; third, floor lamp, $16.95; fourth, iron, $8.95; fifth, heating pad, $6.95; sixth, heater, $4.95; seventh, clock, $4.50; eighth, toaster, $3.95; ninth and tenth, $2.25 pin-up lamps.

Election of officers will be held.

Ernst Schmid, 84, Succumbs At Home

Ernst Schmid, Sr., 84, died at 9:30 a. m. today at his home, 454 Perry st., following a short illness of a heart ailment.

Mr. Schmid was born May 19, 1855, in Stuttgart, Germany, and came to the United States 58 years ago. He had made his home in Salem for the last 56 years. A cabinet maker, Mr. Schmid had been employed at various times in nearly all of the city's industrial plants as a cabinet maker and for the last 10 years had operated a furniture refinishing and upholstery business at his home.

Mr. Schmid and his wife, Margaret, who died six weeks ago, were charter members and two of the organizers of the Emmanuel Lutheran church.

Surviving are five sons, Ernst, Jr., John, Carl and Frank of Salem and William of Canton; two daughters, Mrs. Emma Horn of Coraopolis Heights, Pa., and Mrs. C. W. Davidson of Salem; 23 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. One sister also survives, in Germany.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

VARIED WEATHER STREAKS NATION

Unseasonably Warm In Mid-west, West, South-
western Areas

"Chameleon" weather streaked the United States today.

High winds blew automobiles off New England roads; gales shifted houses of their bases in Oregon; the south basked in shirt-sleeve temperatures, and cherry trees bloomed at Alma, Mo.

A heavy fog shrouded parts of Florida during the night, hindering airline operations, and light trains broke a long drought in northern California.

It was unseasonably warm throughout the midwest, southwest and most of the far west.

With the thermometer at 63 degrees, Salt Lake City enjoyed the warmest December in weather bureau history and worried because no moisture had fallen for 42 days.

The temperature was 71 at Ardmore, Okla., 66 at Oklahoma City, 57 at Kansas City, and between 38 and 48 at Chicago, where high-flying TWA pilots reported observing brilliant displays of northern skies.

Furious winds left at least three dead, many injured and much property damage.

At Seattle, two were reported drowned in record tides, and toppled lines cut off power at Warrenton, Ore. Twenty-four men were injured when a logging locomotive and passenger car went through a rain-weakened trestle on Vancouver Island, B. C.

A mother fighting a grass fire in Vineland, N. J., died in sight of her three children when she brushed against a storm-broken power line carrying 2,000 volts.

Four Salem Men Injured
In Accident East Of
Washingtonville

A Sebring man was injured fatally and seven others were hurt in three different traffic accidents investigated last night and this morning by Salem state highway patrolmen.

Three were hurt when a small coupe, driven by Floyd Carpenter, 27, of 828 E. Garwood st., Alliance, was demolished in a head-on collision with a truck on Route 62, two miles east of Alliance, at 1:15 a. m. today.

The truck driver, Joe Gallichio, 22, of Dayton, was unhurt.

David Simms, 35, of 296 W. Oregon st., Sebring, who was riding with Carpenter, died at 4:20 a. m. today in Alliance City hospital of internal injuries and a crushed chest. Carpenter received a broken left arm.

Walter Raschick, Jr., 22, of 829 S. Webb ave., Alliance, another passenger in the Alliance machine, received numerous lacerations of the face and head.

Floyd Carpenter, 27, of Dayton, helper on the truck, suffered a fractured left arm and a back injury. His condition at the Alliance hospital is reported fair.

According to State Patrolman Donald Joseph report, the crash occurred as the truck was traveling west and the other vehicle east. The left side of the truck was damaged.

Four Salem Men Hurt

Four Salem men suffered cuts and bruises of the face and head in a two-car accident on Route 14, one and one-half miles east of Washingtonville, at 7:40 a. m. today.

They are Earl Griffith, 22, Wilson st., driver of one of the machines; Joseph Simsky, 50, Kelly ave., Ralph Crouch, 45, E. State st., and William Chalfant, 28, Hawley ave.

Arley McElfresh, 38, of R. D. 3, Salem, driver of the other car, received a possible broken left arm and was taken to Salem City hospital for X-ray treatment.

Stage Patrolman Robert Jones said the crash occurred when McElfresh attempted to make a left turn onto a county road and was struck by Griffith machine traveling directly back of him.

A large truck-trailer, a small farm truck and a pleasure car were involved in an accident on Route 46, one and one-half miles south of Canfield, at 10:20 p. m. Friday.

The lone injury which resulted from the tangle went to C. R. Poole, 52, of Niles, who suffered lacerations of the head and right ankle. He was riding in the farm truck operated by Thomas Evans, 29, of Niles.

The other truck was driven by Emmett Johnson, 33, of Toledo, and the other machine by Mrs. Helen Weldon, 36, of R. D. 1, Canfield, the patrol said.

Farmers' Institute To Close At Lisbon

LISBON, Dec. 9.—The final session of the farmer's institute will be held here this afternoon. The two-day meetings will close with election of officers for the coming year.

Farmers this morning heard William L. Manahan speak on the subject "Can Science and Legislation Solve the Farm Problem?" Mrs. Florence Eickmeier spoke on "Safe at Home," while a play, "Henry's Mail Order Wife," provided entertainment.

Two very interesting speeches were scheduled for this afternoon with Mrs. Eickmeier speaking on "Some Things My Community Needs," and Mr. Manahan on "Do We Need More Taxes or More Axes?"

The program last evening drew a large crowd as Manahan spoke on "Fools and Mules," while Mrs. Eickmeier, with whom he shared the speaking platform, gave an address on "The Three T's."

First Tularemia Case Of Season Is Reported Here

The first case of tularemia, or "rabbit fever," to appear in Salem since the start of rabbit hunting season, Nov. 8, was disclosed today.

Wesley Herbert, 82, of 1019 New Garden ave. is suffering from the disease, according to the diagnosis of the state health department. Herbert is confined to his home, but his condition is not serious.

The aged man believes he contracted the disease shortly after the start of the season when he was cleaning a rabbit he had shot. He noticed the rabbit was diseased and immediately destroyed it.

Mr. Herbert did not show any signs of the disease until several days after cleaning the rabbit. A lesion appeared on his thumb, similar to a fester caused by a splinter. He thought nothing of the matter until it began to spread.

A doctor was then summoned and a sample of Mr. Herbert's blood sent to the state health department.

The department reported back that he was suffering from tularemia, which has been prevalent throughout the state this year.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Dec. 9.—Two women, a man and a two-year-old boy died in a flaming cottage on Lake Wissota, near here, today.

The police expressed the opinion they had been slain.

A second man was found shot to death in an Earl Claire cemetery. The police expressed the opinion his death was linked with those in the cottage.

Fifth Body Found

A third man, Donald T. Cameron, about 30 or 35, who lived near here, was found shot to death in a garage near the Lake Wissota cottage. Chief of Police Edward Holtz said he had committed suicide.

Holtz said that Cameron had robbed a filling station in Chippewa Falls and wounded three men just shortly before the cottage fire was discovered and Cameron's body was found.

The bodies of the four persons in the cottage were charred but were believed to be those of Cameron's wife and son, and A. W. Wilk and Mrs. Dale McFete of Minneapolis.

The body found in the Earl Claire cemetery was that of Marshal Brenden of Earl Claire. He had been wounded twice in the head. The wounds were inflicted by bullets from a German type pistol. Such a weapon was found beside Cameron's body, Holtz reported.

Holtz said that Cameron held up the filling station about 12:45 a. m., slugged the attendant, Earl Redard, and took $20 from the cash drawer.

Fires Into Auto

Redard staggered from the station and flagged down two motorists, Frank Babbitt and Sam Holeen of Bloomer. As the trio conversed, Redard told the police, Cameron leaped into his automobile, drew alongside the other car and fired two charges from a shotgun.

The pellets struck Redard in the abdomen, inflicting a serious wound. Holeen was wounded in one eye and Babbitt in the shoulder.

Cameron then fled.

The cottage fire was reported a half hour later. Police found the charred bodies of the four victims and Cameron.

Industrial Claims List 4 Fatalities

Four fatalities were listed among county workers with the state industrial commission during October, it was reported today by Supt. Thomas P. Kearns.

Of the other claims, one showed permanent partial disability, 34 more than seven days lost time, 15 days seven days or less and 115 medical-only cases.

Total time loss as a result of the mishaps was 25,665 days.

Reflecting a steady upward trend in industrial employment, injury and occupational disease claims filed with the industrial commission showed an increase in October, the 17,427 claims filed being 780 more than the September record, Kearns said.

VARIED WEATHER STREAKS NATION

Unseasonably Warm In Mid-west, West, South-
western Areas

"Chameleon" weather streaked the United States today.

High winds blew automobiles off New England roads; gales shifted houses off their bases in Oregon; the south basked in shirt-sleeve temperatures, and cherry trees bloomed at Alma, Mo.

A heavy fog shrouded parts of Florida during the night, hindering airline operations, and light trains broke a long drought in northern California.

It was unseasonably warm throughout the midwest, southwest and most of the far west.

With the thermometer at 63 degrees, Salt Lake City enjoyed the warmest December in weather bureau history and worried because no moisture had fallen for 42 days.

The temperature was 71 at Ardmore, Okla., 66 at Oklahoma City, 57 at Kansas City, and between 38 and 48 at Chicago, where high-flying TWA pilots reported observing brilliant displays of northern skies.

Furious winds left at least three dead, many injured and much property damage.

At Seattle, two were reported drowned in record tides, and toppled lines cut off power at Warrenton, Ore. Twenty-four men were injured when a logging locomotive and passenger car went through a rain-weakened trestle on Vancouver Island, B. C.

A mother fighting a grass fire in Vineland, N. J., died in sight of her three children when she brushed against a storm-broken power line carrying 2,000 volts.

COUPE, TRUCK CRASH HEAD-ON NEAR ALLIANCE

David Simms, 35, Sebring,
Succumbs In Alliance
Hospital

DRIVER OF ONE
VEHICLE IS HURT

Four Salem Men Injured
In Accident East Of
Washingtonville

A Sebring man was injured fatally and seven others were hurt in three different traffic accidents investigated last night and this morning by Salem state highway patrolmen.

Three were hurt when a small coupe, driven by Floyd Carpenter, 27, of 828 E. Garwood st., Alliance, was demolished in a head-on collision with a truck on Route 62, two miles east of Alliance, at 1:15 a. m. today.

The truck driver, Joe Galichio, 22, of Dayton, was unhurt.

David Simms, 35, of 286 W. Oregon st., Sebring, who was riding with Carpenter, died at 4:20 a. m. today in Alliance City hospital of internal injuries and a crushed chest. Carpenter received a broken left arm.

Walter Raschick, Jr., 22, of 829 S. Webb ave., Alliance, another passenger in the Alliance machine received numerous lacerations of the face and head.

Floyd Carpenter, 27, of Dayton, helper on the truck, suffered a fractured left arm and a back injury. His condition at the Alliance hospital is reported fair.

According to State Patrolman Donald Cole's report, the crash occurred as the truck was traveling west and the other vehicle east. The left side of the truck was damaged.

Four Salem Men Injured
and bruises of the face and head in a two-car accident on Route 14, one and one-half miles east of Washingtonville, at 7:40 a. m. today.

They are Earl Griffith, 22, Wilson st., driver of one of the machines; Joseph Sinsley, 50, Kelly ave., Ralph Crouch, 45, E. State st., and William Chalfant, 28, Hawley ave.

Arley McElfresh, 38, of R. D. 3, Salem, driver of the other car, received a possible broken left arm and was taken to Salem City hospital for X-ray treatment.

Stage Patrolman Robert Jones said the crash occurred when McElfresh attempted to make a left turn out a county road and was struck by Griffith machine traveling directly back of him.

A large truck-trailer, a small farm truck and a pleasure car were involved in an accident on Route 46, one and one-half miles south of Canfield, at 10:20 p. m. Saturday.

The lone injury which resulted from the tangle went to C. R. Poole, 52, of Niles, who suffered lacerations of the head and right ankle. He was riding in the farm truck operated by Thomas Evans, 29, of Niles.

The other truck was driven by Emmett Johnson, 33, of Toledo, and the other machine, Mrs. Helen Weiden, 36, of R. D. 1, Canfield, the patrol said.

Farmers' Institute
To Close At Lisbon

LISBON, Dec. 9.—The final session of the farmer's institute will be held here this afternoon. The two-day meetings will close with election of officers for the coming year.

Farmers this morning heard William L. Mahanah speak on the subject "Can Science and Legislation Solve the Farm Problem?" Mrs. Florence Eickmeier spoke on "Safe at Home," while a play, "Henry's Mail Order Wife," provided entertainment.

Two very interesting speeches were scheduled for this afternoon with Mrs. Eickmeier speaking on "Some Things My Community Needs," and Mr. Mahanah on "Do We Need More Taxes or More Axes?"

The program last evening drew a large crowd as Mahanah spoke on "Fools and Mules," while Mrs. Eickmeier, with whom he shared the speaking platform, gave an address on "The Three T's."

The actions, developing from the same accident, were filed by Edythe Kissinger, who asks $3,000; and Myrna Jean Kissinger, who seeks $1,000 for injuries received.

At Seattle, two were reported drowned in record tides, and toppled lines cut off power at Warrenton, Ore. Twenty-four men were injured when a logging locomotive and passenger car went through a rain-weakened trestle on Vancouver Island, B. C.

A mother fighting a grass fire in Vineland, N. J., died in sight of her three children when she brushed against a storm-broken power line carrying 2,000 volts.

STEWART HO!

The young men still go west. Since Thomas E. Dewey has grown into presidential timber he has rolled from New York City into the setting sun twice—once to go to the county fair back home in Shawnee county, Mo., and now farther west to Minnesota and environs on his first speaking tour.

Mr. Dewey has lived in New York City long enough to be almost a native and gained his initial fame busting rackets, a purely citified occupation. He has shown himself possessed of amazing political pulling power for one so young in a nip-and-tuck contest with New York's Gov. Lehman, but it's the winning of the west that counts in presidential politics.

In his first speech, delivered at Minneapolis Wednesday night, Mr. Dewey lays down an interesting campaign line. Young—he is 37—and yielding only to Paul V. McNutt in appearance, he will advocate a revival of faith in the American system... defeatism must be routed... there is something more to do than divide up "what we got from the Indians."

There will be variations on this theme as Mr. Dewey keeps on talking out where the west begins—out in the heart of America—out where the people live. Sen. Taft has been talking out there too, and all the other aspirants for presidential nomination. When the two candidates finally are selected, they'll concentrate on the middle of America too, knowing that if they click there they'll be all right elsewhere.

ANOTHER KIND OF INTERVENTION

Relief of suffering among war refugees is not intervention. Humanitarianism does not stop at boundary lines. Without hesitation, Americans are preparing to send funds and clothing abroad for the relief of suffering. Herbert Hoover, still honored abroad for his administration of relief in Belgium during the World war, will head an organization for relief in Finland. The Red Cross has been gathering supplies for Polish refugees and is appealing for help for war sufferers in the Finland.

Generosity of the United States for victims of disaster is too well established to allow any construction of partiality to be placed on its current activities. It has helped earthquake and typhoon victims in Japan. It has sent food and money to China. It has responded to appeals for help from South America. It has relieved famine conditions in Russia. It has intervened in the name of humanity for relief of Armenians. It has given aid wherever aid was needed and welcomed. There is no partisanship in human kindness.

A nation founded on the principles of Christianity and dedicated to the protection of the dignity of man would be unfaithful to its ideals if it failed to acknowledge its obligation to help victims of war just as readily as the victims of any other disaster.

WAR HATS

If it's true, as some psychologists say it is, that war is caused by inability of men to live down their little boy fondness for getting the upper hand of other little boys in games, then war hats are contributing evidence.

Naturally, the prize hats are worn by the men doing the commanding, just as the little boy with the "boughten" football headgear is entitled to the privilege of calling signals. In the World war, "brass hat" became a synonym for authority; followers had to get along with plain steel helmets. Only recently the British army decided to do away with this distinction.

A picture of Baron Mannerheim, leader of Finland's forces, shows him toggled out in what looks like an ermine replica of the American fur cap, though it might be white rabbit. It's a safe bet that if any Finnish privates wear fur hats, they wear black or brown ones. In Germany, apparently, authority is in proportion to the height of the peak on the cap, and United States admirals still advise their rank by wearing what probably is the strangest of all militant headgear—the bonnet that looks like a coal scuttle, of course, there's nothing to compare with the American Indian war bonnet worn by braves at lethal play, but that's probably only because feathers are hard to get in the present advanced stage of civilization.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Russia's typographical blasts against Roumania seem to be slightly ahead of schedule. They signify the Stalinists are warning up to their next project of aggression—seizure of Bessarabia, lying in the northern corner of Roumania and controlling the land approach to Odessa on the Black sea.

Bessarabia is expected to come after Finland on the Soviet schedule of conquest, but action against the Finns barely has started. Either the Russians are confident of early success, or consider it necessary to get an early start toward lashing themselves into a fury against Roumania. Their work is cut out for them there.

Italy considers Roumania to be in its backyard. Every neutral country in the Balkan area, including Turkey and Greece, has vital interest in upholding Roumania against Russia in the Bessarabian issue. The Bessarabians themselves, who broke away from Russia 22 years ago, have no desire to be Russianized for the greater glory of Stalinism.

The Balkans, traditional trouble spot of Europe, will boil over if Russia turns the heat on Roumania.

A. D. 1215-1939

No more stirring symbolic act than deposit of Magna Carta in the Library of Congress for safe keeping could be devised. For the duration of the war and perhaps much longer than that, the United States will be the guardian of the key to human freedom.

Without Magna Carta there would have been no conception of liberty to guard against the assault of tyranny. The document has been called the "parent cell through which our liberties have been transmitted into the living body of democratic law."

The copy deposited in the Library of Congress is the best of four in existence. It had been brought to the United States for exhibition at the New York fair. It will stand in a case opposite the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

In the troubled years to come it may help Americans to understand why men fight against despotism against sometimes insuperable odds.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

(Issue of December 9, 1909)

The board of education decided at its meeting Wednesday evening that the teachers and pupils of the Salem public schools will enjoy a Christmas vacation of two weeks this year.

E. W. Harshman, delegate, and L. Tomlinson, O. D. Paxson, D. U. Smith and Harry Gamble returned Wednesday evening from Wooster where they attended the tenth annual convention of the Retail Grocers and Butchers association. Mr. Harshman was appointed a member of a committee to draw up resolutions asking the state legislature to pass a law prohibiting the sale of groceries by measure and making compulsory the sale by weight.

Dr. and Mrs. Lee W. Atkinson of Fourth st. entertained the Macrosel Fancypwork club and their husbands and friends on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock dinner.

Mrs. Carrie Nation, who went to Washington to keep her eye on congress, went into the buffet of the Union station there and, taking out her hatchet, wielded it indiscriminately, smashing about $50 worth of bottled whiskies.

The High School Chronicle is the name of a paper published by the students of the Columbiana High school. Orlando McGaffick and John Ward are the editors.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(Issue of December 9, 1919)

Dr. Lowell King has opened up an office on Main st. over the King cigar store. Dr. King is a graduate of Western Reserve college at Cleveland and during the war served in the United States Department of Public Health.

Reports for the Salem branch of the Fish and Game association were given at a meeting of the association Monday evening. Salem leads the county in membership.

The reception dance given by Harold Babb Monday evening in the Calumet hall was attended by about 65 couples who danced to the strains of the Hundertmark orchestra.

Edward Locher, who was in overseas service with Company D of the 37th division, re-enlisted in the navy upon his arrival in this country. He will sail for Europe today.

Miss Iva Wiles left Sunday for Orville, where she will make her home with her parents, who recently moved there.

J. H. Koch, Miss Margaret Koch and Mrs. Minnie Baughman spent Sunday with Mr. Koch's mother in Leontia.

Miss Rose Deville has accepted a position at Woolworth's five and ten cent store.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whinnery of Garfield, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mead, Mrs. W. L. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Betz and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Stiller are attending the state grange meeting in Columbus.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, December 10

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise for furthering the interests and attaining worthy ambitions by placating or attracting superiors, elders or those in influential positions. But in all such aims shun impetuous, contentious or angry approach. Cultivate harmony and good will rather than aggressiveness.

Those whose birthday it is may have an opportunity for gaining the preferment and good will of those in high places by means of tact, conciliation and amiability rather than strife and impetuosity. Shun pitfalls and malice by being gracious, generous and understanding.

A child born on this day may be energetic, self-willed, impulsive and over-aggressive in putting over its ends when finesse and courtesy would better serve. Inherently it has such social graces which should enhance its success.

For Monday, December 11

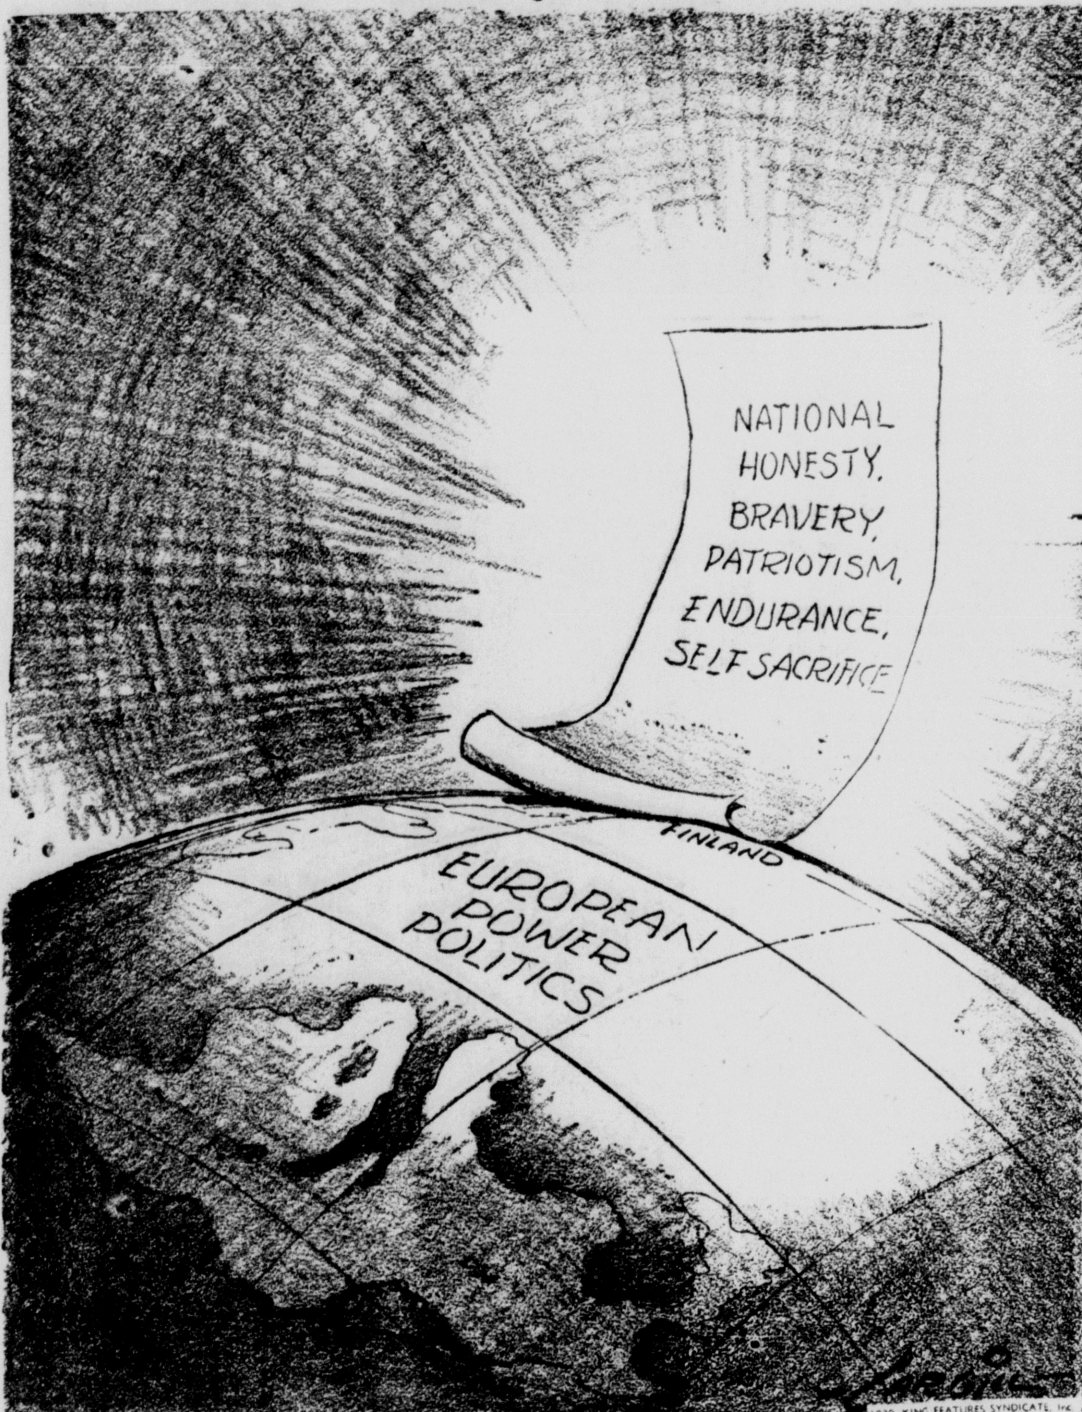

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for stability, security and sound growth, to be obtained by means of hard work, industrious application and sound judgment. These may be required to escape pitfalls, schemes or undercurrents, possibly sinister and unsuspected. But the mentality is equal to this and the impulses worthy. Accordingly, there should be enduring good wrested from treachery and wile.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year crowned by success and just reward for merit, probity and diligence, probably in the face of duplicity, schemes, plots and malice. Be alert to these and exercise your own fine mentality and sterling qualities should quicksands threaten.

A child born on this day may be industrious, persevering, willing and reliable, yet it may be disposed to use strategy or easy methods if forced to the wall.

The Italian press doesn't like what Stalin is doing to Finland. It may be a sincere expression of revulsion, or it may be evening the score with those Soviet spokesmen who were "shocked" by the invasion of Ethiopia.

Changes In Life Of Man Are Revealed In New Book

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A BOOK which, in these uncertain times for mankind's future, should be in every home, certainly in every college and high school library, is Otto Neurath's Modern Man in the Making (A. A. Knopf, 1939).

It shows, largely by means of the new-fashioned and fascinating pictorial graphs, the changes which have occurred in man's life in the modern world—in industry, politics, environment, daily comforts, surroundings, length of life, disease.

The latter subjects are, of course, the ones which interest us in this column.

Taking a clock dial, the author divides it into three sectors—red for work, black for sleep, blue for leisure. The average man (and woman) of the Middle Ages, indeed, up to the eighteenth century,

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

worked 14 hours of the 24, slept eight and played two. The modern man works eight, sleeps eight and plays eight. You know that all the time, but on the graph it seems more important.

Tuberculosis, which holds the spotlight in this Christmas seal period, is dealt with on page 97. Never have I seen a more striking representation of the relationship of poverty to tuberculosis. Three Brooklyn districts are compared—Flatbush, Bedford and Red Hook-Gowanus. The average rent and a symbol of the kind of house or apartment inhabited are shown on one side of a line—on the other side a graveyard with crosses. The crosses represent the deaths per 10,000 population per annum. In Flatbush the rent is $80, the house has three windows and there are three crosses in the graveyard. In Bedford the rent is $50, two windows; five crosses. In Red Hook-Gowanus the rent is $30, one window; ten crosses.

Population trends in relation to disease, birth, death and suicide give material for thought.

Is life in the city unhealthy? We have always been taught to believe so. The facts:

Growing urbanization has reduced disease. It has reduced the birth rate and decreased the death rate. In Great Britain, in 1840, 20 per cent of the population lived in towns of 100,000 or over; there were 25 deaths per 1,000 population annually in the whole country. In 1930, in Great Britain, 45 per cent of the population lived in cities of 100,000 or over; there were 15 deaths per 1,000 population annually in the whole country.

We are developing a civilization top-heavy with old people. Arranging the population age groups by decades, from 0-10 years up to 70-80, in 1871 the resultant graph looks like a pyramid; in 1931 it looks like the outline of an apple.

with a clean slice off the bottom. Infant mortality is an old story, but it shows up in a revealing way in the graph. In New York, from 1900-1902, there were 13 graves in 1930-1932, per same number of population, five and one-half.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
G. V. H.: "Is it true that the telephone harbors no disease germs? What about baby's toys?"

Answer—Most germs that affect human being die a short time after they leave the body, especially if they light on a smooth, hard surface like a telephone receiver. Just how much cross infection of respiratory diseases come from telephones has never been accurately studied. But the incidence must be pretty low. Baby's toys seldom carry disease germs. The most dangerous possibility is the transmission of scarlet fever. A child who is convalescing from scarlet fever should be given only toys and books that can be burnt at the conclusion of convalescence.

M. B.: "What causes neuralgia? Is there a remedy for it? Would it cause swelling of the eyelids?"

Answer—Neuralgia is due to an irritation of a sensory nerve. It may be caused by focal infection in the teeth, tonsils or other places, or by changes due to age in the nerves. In cases of facial or trigeminal neuralgia, swelling of the eyelids, redness of the eyes and tearing are common.

A. C. S.: "I understand that electrolysis is the only way to remove superfluous facial hair permanently. Is such an operation perfectly safe; and who is qualified to do such work?"

Answer—The operation is safe. Most M. D.s who practice the specialty of dermatology are prepared to do it, and they are qualified to do it safely.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene", and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

The new generation... eternal hope of the world! Our children and our children's children... so age after age man has lived, not so much in the present as in his dreams of a greater future.

The Home Savings & Loan Co. today, in many cases, is serving the grandchildren of its original customers, and yet our thoughts in this Fiftieth Anniversary year are not of the past but of the present and future.

For a savings institution is more than a business... it is a storehouse of savings... a reservoir of credit for the home-owner... a dynamo which creates a steady flow of "current" to drive and sustain the economic system of this community.

A savings institution must not be thought of in terms of personalities or the life span of the individual. A savings institution that is sound in principle and practice is an enduring, continuing force of constantly growing benefits to its community.

The young men still go west. Since Thomas E. Dewey has grown into presidential timber he has rolled from New York City into the setting sun twice—once to go to the county fair back home in Shawnee county, Mich., and now farther west to Minnesota and environs on his first speaking tour.

Mr. Dewey has lived in New York City long enough to be almost a native and gained his initial fame busting rackets, a purely civilized occupation. He has shown himself possessed of amazing political pulling power for one so young in a nip-and-tuck contest with New York's Gov. Lehman, but it's the winning of the west that counts in presidential politics.

In his first speech, delivered at Minneapolis Wednesday night, Mr. Dewey lays down an interesting campaign line. Young—he is 37—and yielding only to Paul V. McNutt in appearance, he will advocate a revival of faith in the American system . . . defeatism must be routed . . . there is something more to do than divide up "what we got from the Indians."

There will be variations on this theme as Mr. Dewey keeps on talking out where the west begins—out in the heart of America—out where the people live. Sen. Taft has been talking out there too, and all the other aspirants for presidential nomination. When the two candidates finally are selected, they'll concentrate on the middle of America too, knowing that if they click there they'll be all right elsewhere.

ANOTHER KIND OF INTERVENTION

Relief of suffering among war refugees is not intervention. Humanitarianism does not stop at boundary lines. Without hesitation, Americans are preparing to send funds and clothing abroad for the relief of suffering. Herbert Hoover, still honored abroad for his administration of relief in Belgium during the World War, will head an organization for relief in Finland. The Red Cross has been gathering supplies for Polish refugees and is appealing for help for war sufferers in Finland.

Generosity of the United States for victims of disaster is too well established to allow any construction of partiality to be placed on its current activities. It has helped earthquake and typhoon victims in Japan. It has sent food and money to China. It has responded to appeals for help from South America. It has relieved famine conditions in Russia. It has intervened in the name of humanity for relief of Armenians. It has given aid wherever aid was needed and welcomed. There is no partisanship in human kindness.

A nation founded on the principles of Christianity and dedicated to the protection of the dignity of man would be unfaithful to its ideals if it failed to acknowledge its obligation to help victims of war just as readily as the victims of any other disaster.

WAR HATS

If it's true, as some psychologists say it is, that war is caused by inability of men to live down their little boy fondness for getting the upper hand of other little boys in games, then war hats are contributing evidence.

Naturally, the prize hats are worn by the men doing the commanding, just as the little boy with the "boughten" football headgear is entitled to the privilege of calling signals. In the World War, "brass hat" became a synonym for authority; followers had to get along with plain steel helmets. Only recently the British army decided to do away with this distinction.

A picture of Baron Mannerheim, leader of Finland's forces, shows him togged out in what looks like an ermine replica of the American fur cap, though it might be white rabbit. It's a safe bet that if any Finnish privates wear fur hats, they wear black or brown ones. In Germany, apparently, authority is in proportion to the height of the peak on the cap, and United States admirals still advertise their rank by wearing what probably is the strangest of all militant headgears—the bonnet that looks like a coal scuttle, of course, there's nothing to compare with the American Indian war bonnet worn by braves at lethal play, but that's probably only because feathers are hard to get in the present advanced stage of civilization.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Russia's typographical blasts against Roumania seem to be slightly ahead of schedule. They signify the Stalinists are warning up to their next project of aggression—seizure of Bessarabia, lying in the northeast corner of Roumania, and controlling the hard approach to Odessa on the Black sea.

Bessarabia is expected to come after Finland on the Soviet schedule of conquest, but action against the Finns barely has started. Either the Russians are confident of early success, or consider it necessary to get an early start toward lashing themselves into a fury against Roumania. Their work is cut out for them there.

Italy considers Roumania to be in its backyard. Every neutral country in the Balkan area, including Turkey and Greece, has vital interest in upholding Roumania against Russia in the Bessarabian issue. The Bessarabians themselves, who broke away from Russia 22 years ago, have no desire to be Russified for the greater glory of Stalinism.

The Balkans, traditional trouble spot of Europe, will boil over if Russia turns the heat on Roumania.

A. D. 1215-1939

No more stirring symbolic act than deposit of Magna Carta in the Library of Congress for safe keeping could be devised. For the duration of the war and perhaps much longer than that, the United States will be the guardian of the key to human freedom.

Without Magna Carta there would have been no conception of liberty to guard against the assault of tyranny. The document has been called the "parent cell through which our liberties have been transmitted into the living body of democratic law."

The copy deposited in the Library of Congress is the best of four in existence. It had been brought to the United States for exhibition at the New York fair. It will stand in a case opposite the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

In the troubled years to come it may help Americans to understand why men fight against despotism against sometimes insuperable odds.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, December 10

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise for furthering the interests and attaining worthy ambitions by placating or attracting superiors, elders or those in influential positions. But in all such aims shun impetuous, contentious or angry approach. Cultivate harmony and good will rather than aggressiveness.

Those whose birthday it is may have an opportunity for gaining the preferment and good will of those in high places by means of tact, conciliation and amiability rather than strife and impetuosity. Shun pitfalls and malice by being gracious, generous and understanding.

A child born on this day may be energetic, self-willed, impulsive and over-aggressive in putting over its ends when finesse and courtesy would better serve. Inherently it has such social graces which should enhance its success.

For Monday, December 11

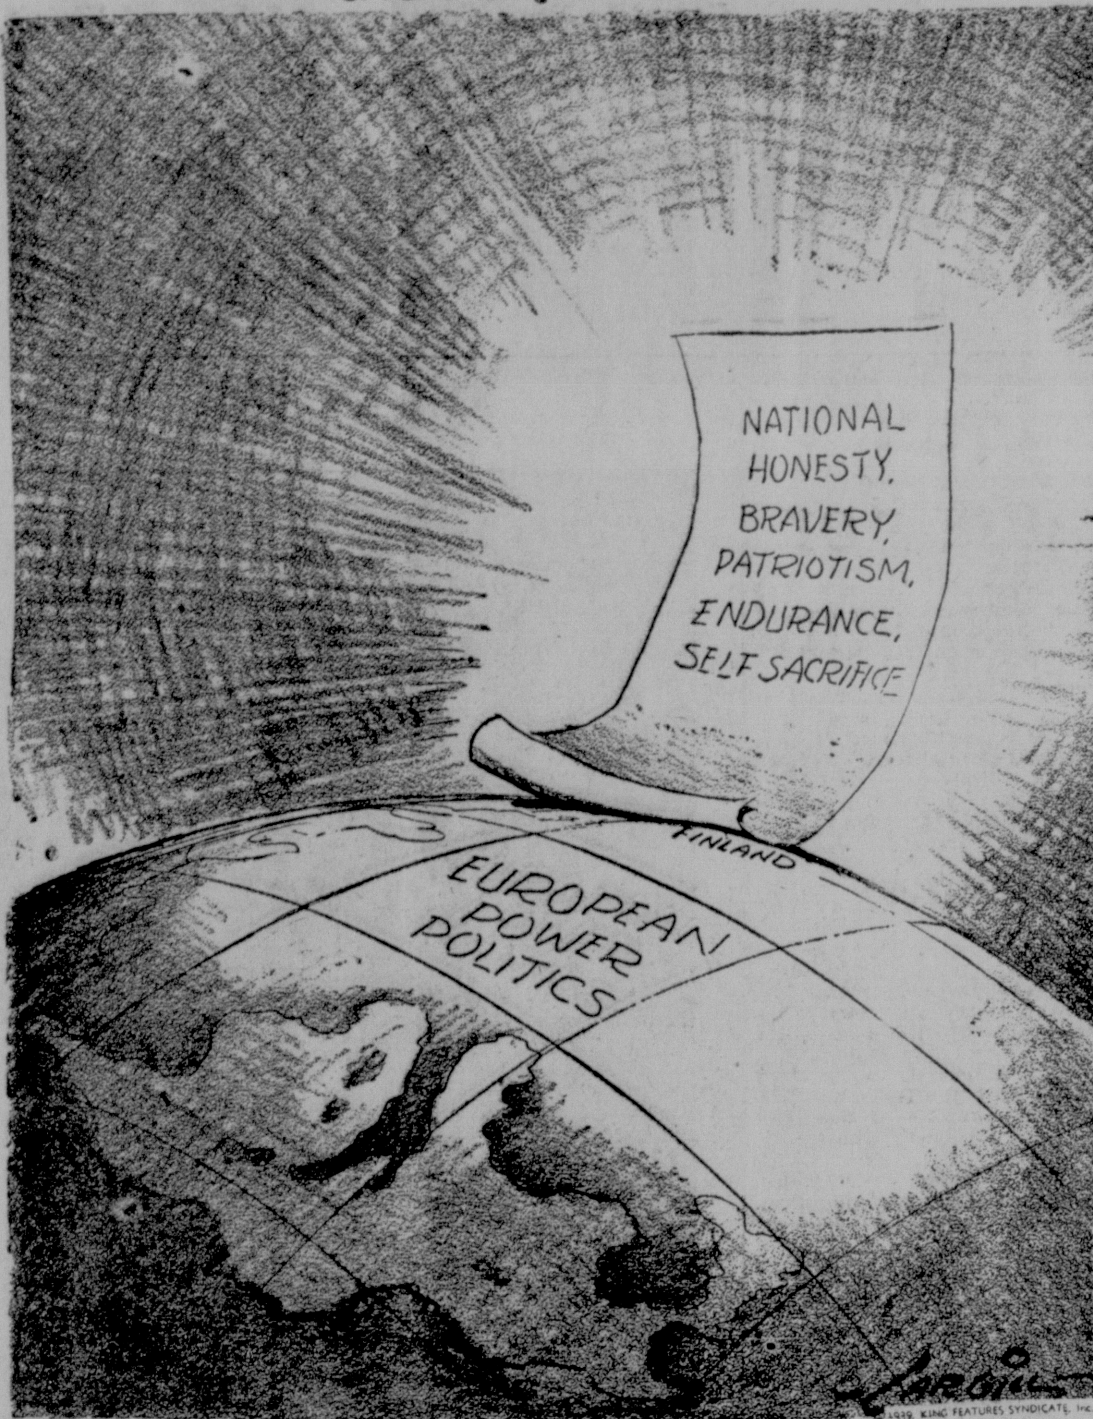

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for stability, security and sound growth, to be obtained by means of hard work, industrious application and sound judgment. These may be required to escape pitfalls, schemes or undercurrents, possibly sinister and unsuspected. But the mentality is equal to this and the impulses worthy. Accordingly, there should be enduring good wrested from treachery and wile.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year crowned by success and just reward for merit, probity and diligence, probably in the face of duplicity, schemes, plots and malice. Be alert to these and exercise your own fine mentality and sterling qualities should quicken and threaten.

A child born on this day may be industrious, persevering, willing and reliable, yet it may be disposed to use strategy or easy methods if forced to the wall.

The Italian press doesn't like what Stalin is doing to Finland. It may be a sincere expression of revulsion, or it may be even the score with those Soviet spokesmen who were "shocked" by the invasion of Ethiopia.

Band Quits Swing For "Restful" Airs To Aid Businessmen

(By International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9.—With every second orchestra in the nation emphasizing swing, bandleader Bernie Cummins deliberately has his boys dish out "a tired business man's tempo."

"Older people like a night out as well as the jitterbugs," he said during an engagement in Philadelphia. "We count on the beat for them and make it easy for them to get around the floor."

Personally fond of swing, Cummins believes an orchestra should play the type of music best liked in any one particular spot. In other words, if the cash customers call for jamming, that's what they ought to get.

On the other hand, he has played mostly hotel dates during the past 15 years and his more mature hearers have shown a preference for "sweet" rendition.

"Any band that jams continuously is blasting the patrons right out of their chairs," Cummins asserted. "These mature patrons should be soothed with quiet music as they are the ones who pay the bills."

Changes In Life Of Man Are Revealed In New Book

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. A BOOK which, in these uncertain times for mankind's future, should be in every home, certainly in every college and high school library, is Otto Neurath's Modern Man in the Making (A. A. Knopf, 1939).

It shows, largely by means of the new-fashioned and fascinating pictorial graphs, the changes which have occurred in man's life in the modern world—in industry, politics, environment, daily comforts, surroundings, length of life, disease. The latter subjects are, of course, the ones which interest us in this column.

Taking a clock dial, the author divides it into three sectors—red for work, black for sleep, blue for leisure. The average man (and woman) of the Middle Ages, indeed, up to the eighteenth century, worked 14 hours of the 24, slept eight and played two. The modern man works eight, sleeps eight and plays eight. You know that all the time, but on the graph it seems more important.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Tuberculosis, which holds the spotlight in this Christmas seal period, is dealt with on page 97. Never have I seen a more striking representation of the relationship of poverty to tuberculosis. Three Brooklyn districts are compared—Flatbush, Bedford and Red Hook-Gowanus. The average rent and a symbol of the kind of house or apartment inhabited are shown on one side of a line—on the other side a graveyard with crosses. The crosses represent the deaths per 10,000 population per annum. In Flatbush the rent is $60, the house has three windows and there are three crosses in the graveyard. In Bedford the rent is $50, two windows; five crosses. In Red Hook-Gowanus the rent is $30; one window; ten crosses.

Population trends in relation to disease, birth, death and suicide give material for thought. Is life in the city unhealthy? We have always been taught to believe so. The facts:

Growing urbanization has reduced disease. It has reduced the birth rate and decreased the death rate. In Great Britain, in 1840, 20 per cent of the population lived in towns of 100,000 or over; there were 25 deaths per 1,000 population annually in the whole country. In 1930, in Great Britain, 45 per cent of the population lived in cities of 100,000 or over; there were 13 deaths per 1,000 population annually in the whole country.

We are developing a civilization top-heavy with old people. Arranging the population age groups by decades, from 0-10 years up to 70-80, in 1871 the resultant graph looks like a pyramid; in 1931 it looks like the outline of an apple.

with a clean slice off the bottom. Infant mortality is an old story, but it shows up in a revealing way in the graph. In New York, from 1900-1902, there were 13 graves; in 1930-1932, per same number of population, five and one-half.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. V. H.: "Is it true that the telephone harbors no disease germs? What about baby's toys?"

Answer—Most germs that affect human being die a short time after they leave the body, especially if they light on a smooth, hard surface like a telephone receiver. Just how much cross infection of respiratory diseases come from telephones has never been accurately studied. But the incidence must be pretty low. Baby's toys seldom carry disease germs. The most dangerous possibility is the transmission of scarlet fever. A child who is convalescing from scarlet fever should be given only toys and books that can be burnt at the conclusion of convalescence.

M. B.: "What causes neuralgia? Is there a remedy for it? Would it cause swelling of the eyelids?"

Answer—Neuralgia is due to an irritation of a sensory nerve. It may be caused by focal infection in the teeth, tonsils or other places, or by changes due to age in the nerves. In cases of facial or trigeminal neuralgia, swelling of the eyelids, redness of the eyes and ting are common.

A. C. S.: "I understand that electrolysis is the only way to remove superfluous facial hair permanently. Is such an operation perfectly safe; and who is qualified to do such work?"

Answer—The operation is safe. Most M. D.s who practice the specialty of dermatology are prepared to do it, and they are qualified to do it safely.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th St., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

We Look To the Future

The new generation . . . eternal hope of the world! Our children and our children's children . . . so age after age man has lived, not so much in the present as in his dreams of a greater future.

The Home Savings & Loan Co. today, in many cases, is serving the grandchildren of its original customers, and yet our thoughts in this Fiftieth Anniversary year are not of the past but of the present and future.

For a savings institution is more than a business . . . it is a storehouse of savings . . . a reservoir of credit for the home-owner . . . a dynamo which creates a steady flow of "current" to drive and sustain the economic system of this community.

A savings institution must not be thought of in terms of personalities or the life span of the individual. A savings institution that is sound in principle and practice is an enduring, continuing force of constantly growing benefits to its community.

'Thy Kingdom Come' Sermon Topic For English Lutheran

"Thy Kingdom Come" is the theme which Rev. George D. Keister has chosen for his sermon at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the second Sunday in Advent.

Services for the church and announcements follow:

Sunday school, 9:45—Matthew 11:16-30. Charles W. Youtz, Supt.

The good news of the Gospel of Christ has never been equalled. The blessings that have followed the Christian church are readily acknowledged by even those who are not numbered among the members of the church. A very important issue is the reaction to this message of God which comes through the church that Christ established. Some there are who will fight and oppose the church. Others will forever be indifferent to God's Kingdom. While one-third of the human race are eager to receive the blessings of Christianity and to take the gospel of Jesus to others.

Morning worship, 11. Sermon.

"The world is praying for this earthly kingdom to become more like the Kingdom of God. Most all people agree that the kingdoms of man are faulty and troublesome. They are selfish and often given to rule by force. The hope of the world is that more of God and His kingdom will be felt in our daily lives. Reading the Holy Bible and living the principles of the Bible will help bring God's Kingdom to earth."

Luther league, 6:30—Devotional topic, "Great Christian Hymns."

The first sermon will deal with the subject "The Modern Church Needs a Creed." The text for this sermon is written in Romans 10: 10, "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." Come and hear, especially you who have no church connection these sermons on Christian fundamentals.

German service at 11 a. m.

Old Truths

"The world is different in many respects from that in which our fathers lived. Science and invention have transformed life's methods and standards. There has been an accumulation and dissemination of much knowledge. But is it a happier world than that in which our fathers lived? Has it settled our elemental problems? Has it answered the anxious questions of our souls? It has attacked and destroyed old faiths and old ideals but it has not replaced them. It has spiritual field it has torn down but not built up. The old anxieties regarding life and death and eternity still remain. The old consciousness of wrongdoing and of justice of God still remains. We still need a Savior. The old verities of God's Word are still applicable. The old cross still stands. The old invitation of grace still reaches. We need just what our fathers needed, a living, guarding, redeeming Savior."

Announcements

Sunday at 2 p. m. Christmas program practice for the Sunday school children.

The Elizabeth Frye class, taught by Mrs. Ward Allen, will meet at the home of Mrs. Henry Wolfgang, 250 Hawley ave., Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Baptist Members To Observe Bible Sunday Tomorrow

A special service in observance of National Bible Sunday will be held at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the First Baptist church.

Members of the Youngstown camp of the Gideons of Ohio, who are cooperating in the observance by appearing in churches in Salem, Lisbon and Columbiana, will conduct the service.

Two hundred Bibles will be dedicated at the service. Special music will be furnished by the choir. The service is open to the public.

The Gideons are Christian laymen, members of evangelical churches, who give of their time and means to place Bibles where they will be helpful to people away from home in hotels, hospitals and penal institutions, and who are now particularly anxious to make Bibles available for reading in every school room of the country, every day of the school year.

This work is interdenominational, and men of all churches—with proper qualifications—are eligible for membership. Over 1,600,000 Bibles have been so placed through the efforts of these men in every state of this country, in Canada, and in 23 countries abroad.

Rev. S. Talmage Magan, pastor, will continue a series of sermons placing special emphasis on a true Christian appreciation of Christmas by preaching at the morning worship service on the subject "Our Divinity Through Christ's Coming." The sermon will deal with values that are sometimes overlooked in the busy rush for material things at this time of year.

Complete services for the church are as follows:

9:45 a. m., Sunday school—Elwood Hammell, superintendent.

10:45 a. m., Morning worship with sermon.

6:15 p. m., Junior B. Y. P. U.—Miss Louise Calkins and Sam Paxson, directors.

Mrs. Sarah Griffith

Believed to be the oldest person ever naturalized in Detroit, Mrs. Sarah Griffith, 92, has become a United States citizen at last. Born in Adelaide, Ontario, Mrs. Griffith came to the U. S. when she was 14. She has lived intermittently in the U. S. since the Civil war days. Failure to find her husband's army discharge papers led her to apply for citizenship, she said.

Pike's Peak Train

PIKE'S PEAK, Colo., Dec. 9.—Industrial progress has come to Pike's Peak, where 14,110-foot summit has been attained by visitors for the last 50 years in passenger trains pushed by tiny steam locomotives on a cog-and-track railway. To lessen the deadweight that has to be pushed up the peak, an aluminum alloy train with diesel engine power has been substituted.

'Thy Kingdom Come' Sermon Topic For English Lutheran

"Thy Kingdom Come" is the theme which Rev. George D. Keiser has chosen for his sermon at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the second Sunday in Advent.

Services for the church and announcements follow:

Sunday school, 9:45—(Matthew 11:16-30) Charles W. Youtz, Supt.

"The good news of the Gospel of Christ has never been equalled. The blessings that have followed the Christian church are readily acknowledged by even those who are not numbered among the members of the church. A very important issue is the reaction to this message of God which comes through the church that Christ established. Some there are who will fight and oppose the church. Others will forever be indifferent to God's Kingdom. While one-third of the human race are eager to receive the blessings of Christianity and to take the gospel of Jesus to others."

Morning worship, 11. Sermon. "The world is praying for this earthly kingdom to become more like the Kingdom of God. Most all people agree that the kingdoms of man are faulty and troublesome. They are selfish and often given to rule by force. The hope of the world is that more of God and His kingdom will be felt in our daily lives. Reading the Holy Bible and living the principles of the Bible will help bring God's Kingdom to earth."

Luther league, 6:30—Devotional topic, "Great Christian Hymns."

Emmanuel Lutheran Services Tomorrow

Services tomorrow for the Emmanuel American Lutheran church, 291 S. Broadway, as announced by the pastor, Rev. John Bauman, are as follows:

The Sunday school with classes for all ages meets at 9 a. m. Lee Schaefer is superintendent. The pastor's Bible class meets at 9:15 a. m.

Divine service at 10 a. m. Beginning with this Sunday the pastor, Rev. Bauman, will preach a series of sermons on the Apostles Creed. The general theme for the series is "Beliefs That Matter." The first sermon will deal with the subject "The Modern Church Needs a Creed." The text for this sermon is written in Romans 10, 10, "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." Come and hear, especially you who have no church connection these sermons on Christian fundamentals.

German service at 11 a. m.

Old Truths
"The world is different in many respects from that in which our fathers lived. Science and invention have transformed life's methods and standards. There has been an accumulation and dissemination of much knowledge. But is it a happier world than that in which our fathers lived? Has it settled our elemental problems? Has it answered the anxious questions of our souls? It has attacked and destroyed old faiths and old ideals but it has not replaced them. In the spiritual field it has torn down but not built up. The old anxieties regarding life and death and eternity still remain. The old confusion of wrongdoing and of righteousness of God still remains. We still need a Savior. The old verities of God's Word are still applicable. The old cross still stands. The old invitation of grace still resounds. We need just what our fathers needed, a living, guarding, redeeming Savior."

Announcements
Sunday at 2 p. m. Christmas program practice for the Sunday school children.

Thursday, 7:00 p. m., Girl Scout meeting.

Thursday, 7:30 p. m., Choir practice.

Christian Science Society Services

"God, The Preserver of Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the morning worship service of the Christian Science Society tomorrow. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WCLE (610 kil.) in Cleveland the first and third Sundays of each month.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 9:30 a. m. A midweek service is held at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore" (Psalms 121:8).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen" (11 Timothy 4:18).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in. He constantly turns away from material sense, and looks towards the imperishable things of Spirit. If honest, he will be in earnest from the start, and gain a little each day in the right direction, till at last he finishes his course with joy."

This society maintains a reading room at 136 S. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. The room is open daily except Saturday, from 1:30 to 4 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 to 9 p. m.

The public is invited to attend all services and to visit the reading room.

Baptist Members To Observe Bible Sunday Tomorrow

A special service in observance of National Bible Sunday will be held at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the First Baptist church.

Members of the Youngstown camp of the Gideons of Ohio, who are cooperating in the observance by appearing in churches in Salem, Lisbon and Columbiana, will conduct the service.

Two hundred Bibles will be dedicated at the service. Special music will be furnished by the choir. The service is open to the public.

The Gideons are Christian laymen, members of evangelical churches, who give of their time and means to place Bibles where they will be helpful to people away from home in hotels, hospitals and penal institutions, and who are now particularly anxious to make Bibles available for reading in every school room of the country, every day of the school year.

This work is interdenominational, and men of all churches—with proper qualifications—are eligible for membership. Over 1,600,000 Bibles have been so placed through the efforts of these men in every state of this country, in Canada, and in 23 countries abroad.

Rev. S. Talmage Magann, pastor, will continue a series of sermons placing special emphasis on a true Christian appreciation of Christmas by preaching at the morning worship service on the subject "Our Divinity Through Christ's Coming." The sermon will deal with values that are sometimes overlooked in the busy rush for material things at this time of year.

Complete services for the church are as follows:

9:45 a. m., Sunday school—Elwood Hammett, superintendent.

10:45 a. m., Morning worship with sermon.

6:15 p. m., Junior B. Y. P. U.—Miss Louise Calkins and Sam Paxson, directors.

6:30 p. m., Senior B. Y. P. U.—Bob Brudery, leader.

7:30 p. m.—Special observance of National Bible Sunday.

Announcements

Swans Show Gains In National Park, New Census Shows

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Dec. 8.—New hopes were raised for preservation of America's almost extinct trumpeter swans by this year's annual Yellowstone park swan count. It was stated recently by Park Superintendent Edmund B. Rogers.

The park now has the largest number of the graceful birds in its history, 70, as compared with 44 last year, Rogers said. And of these 70, 53 are adults.

There are only about 200 trumpeters in the United States, Rogers said, and they seemed on the way to extinction when the park service and U. S. biological survey started a campaign to restore the species.

A count of bears in the park showed they are increasing also. Grizzlies lead with 277 tallied by rangers, more than there have been at any time in the past four years.

Despite this increase, however, injuries suffered by visitors from bears have shown a decrease. Rogers said.

Now...a serial as glamorous as its heroine!...

Ever read a novel by May Christie? Then you'll know this famous author's genius for packing her romances with glamour and excitement, for creating heroines typical of modern young America. Now you can meet her most successful creation in a new serial that's as modern—and glamorous—as lovely Moira Carewe, the small-town girl who came to New York and fought a gallant, daring battle against poverty, intrigue, and tragic misunderstanding. Here is an unforgettable portrait of a modern young woman in love, painted against a background of Park Avenue and Greenwich Village, smart society and hangers-on.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY- CHRISTIE

CHAPTER I

She had been in love with him for seven years.

It had started at an Easter picnic. She was home from boarding school on her vacation. Greeting, coo-like, awkward, there was the definite promise of beauty in her deep-set eyes fringed with long lashes, her heart-shaped little face was too thin now.

He had said to her, "I just had to come up and speak to you—you're so pretty!"

So it started.

He was nineteen. But he looked older, to her mind.

He was big, and good, and terribly handsome in a good-mannered, downy way. He was the word you would use to describe him. Or was it nonchalant? Twin demons of mischief lurked in his blue eyes.

Every time about him stirred her fancy. Primarily, his mop of bronze-gold hair. Or, no, it was his smile that made you watch for it, flashing like a beacon of his moods—and Tarleton Griggs even his name was fascinating in its eddies had as many moods as the sands of the seashore.

He was the first man who had ever called her pretty.

She had wanted, terribly, to be pretty. She had been a shy child.

Brought up by a maiden aunt in Madison, whose ideas were mid-Victorian—a widower father whose mind was on the marvels of the Natural History Museum and the treasures he wrote—Moira Carver, till now, had lived in a world of her own imagining, in dreams of days when she would be done with school, and would really see the world.

Tarleton Griggs was to say to her later, "I'm an extrovert. A hedonist. I live in the moment, as all the wise old Greek philosophers did. Who can foretell anything but the present? Why not be sensible and grab it? When there's so much actual fun in the world—as is—why try to solve the riddles of the universe? Darling—let's have fun—lots of fun—while we may!"

They'd had lots of fun together, in vacation time. He'd taught her how to ride. He looked marvelous in the saddle—like a centaur—she'd been reading about the centaurs at her school—none of them could have looked more glorious than Tarleton.

He had taught her polo. She'd been horribly afraid, to begin with. He'd laughed her out of that. And if a pibe sometimes had been mingled with the laugh, she'd learned to swallow the lump in her throat, to be hard-hitting as the best.

He taught her contract-bridge. She played until her brain was re-fueled. But hearts were trumps—in more ways than one. If Tarleton had demanded that she learn Hindu or Chinese, she would have brought the same enthusiasm.

The "Charleston" was in, that year. She sneaked to New York for lessons. Here were mirrors, in panels, round the walls. Waist-lines were almost to the knees. Skirts were knee-high. The walls reflected forests of legs—fat legs—skinny legs, ugly legs, pretty legs—madly grating.

A mad world, wasn't it?

But Tarleton had fun!

New York was no more than a couple of hours away if you stepped on the gas like nobody's business—that was the phrase you used often—"like nobody's business."

There was Texas Guinan's. Everyone went to Tex's to give the little girl a hand, to be singled out by name, when was a whale of a kick in itself, or to be hailed on arrival with, "Hello, Sucker!"

Tarleton was mad about Texas's, and Helen Morgan's, and Harry Richman's, and the Jungle Club, while Moira adored the Lido-Verne. They went to these places during Christmas vacation, those wonderful three weeks she was spending in town. Dad was doing some research work at the Museum of Natural History, rechecking and expanding notes for his new book on ethnology, and he had brought Moira with him, to the modest little hotel in the West Eighties he always put up at.

They were both blissfully happy, in vastly divergent ways. Though they resided in Connecticut, Tarleton's father, for business reasons, had a yearly lease on a small apartment in the Biltmore, and as he'd left for the West a couple of weeks, Tarleton, unknown to him, had commandeered it.

The old man'll raise the devil if he finds out—but who cares! Tarleton invariably yielded to his impulses, letting the morrow and its aftermath take care of themselves.

Moira loved that recklessness in Tarleton. A wonderful gift to be able to live so completely in the present!

They'd dine in speakeasies, after

They'd had lots of fun together. . . . He'd taught her to ride.

Tarleton, in his huge racoon coat, had been recognized through peepholes.

Or if Moira wanted to be alone with him, as often she did, they'd dine in hotel restaurants!

They danced all over town. The jazz bands played "Shakin' the Blues Away," "Thinking of You," and "Valencia." It was the style for the girl to lean far back as she danced, and her partner to crouch far forward. Tarleton and Moira fox-trotted for miles and miles. Moira wore out a pair of satin slippers—the toes were literally kicked out, not to speak of the kicks that everyone gave everyone else on the packed dance floors—"side-swiping," Tarleton called it.

As souvenirs of those good times, she kept the theater-programs and paper-caps and whistles and wooden rattlers, hitten away in the house at Madison, for years afterwards.

Also the absurd beaded-scarlet crepe that ended in a bead-fringe at the knees. And the rhinestone-studded orange chiffon with the huge tulle cauliflower on one shoulder. Both were more suited to a woman in the fifties than to a girl in her teens, but everybody wore gowns like that, that winter, topped by jazzy metal-ochre evening coats that made you look like a Christmas bundle, or a lamphade.

It was a say, mad winter—"yes, indeedly! and how!" as the saying went—for young and old!

The quar went with you, naturally. "The real old pre-war stuff," Tarleton invariably declared. It went under your table in the nightclub—the same table that carried the printed "WARNING" about not putting anything from the bottle into the soda-water the waiter brought you at a dollar a half-pint, or into the set-ups that cost a young fortune.

In Tarleton's gaily painted roadster, snuggled against the racoon coat, they'd shoot up, afterwards, to Harlem, to Small's, or the Nest, or the Baron's, where the clever cocktail entertainers did the "Black Bottom" and other exotic dances.

Or they'd go "way down to the Village. It was her first introduction to Bohemianism.

What if the artists worke dharer on appearing odd than on their books or canvases? The Kicking Mules was usually their last port of call. Over bacon and eggs or kippers (Tarleton loved kippers), with a mannish young woman thumping jazz on the piano, in the guttering candle-light, they would join in the singing. Tarleton sang lustily, Moira shyly, in a sweet contralto.

The hit-songs that year were all about love.

The popular artist sang very softly there, so the guests had to put down their knives and forks and staccato-wise, at his steel guitar. The most fascinating song in his repertoire was: "Then I'll Be Happy!"

The jerkiest, bobbingest, funniest little tune!

As long as she lived, Moira would always remember it.

They sang it at the more swanky rendezvous as well. Aunt Melinda would have been shocked to death if she had known her child was in a nightclub! Father was burning the midnight oil in the Museum of Natural History, or in a trance of writing in his room on the floor above hers in the little West-Side hotel. He had forgotten all about

MAIL HEAVY IN CHRISTMAS, FLA.

Pieces from Over World Sent Chiefly For Postmarking

CHRISTMAS, Fla.—A seasonal boom in good cheer is reported from this famous hamlet of 200 population as holiday packages, letters and cards pour into the tiny postoffice from remotest sections of the world.

African missionaries, children from the Bronx and even persons from the war zones of Europe sent their holiday mail here for what has become an official stamp of Yuletide approval—"Greetings from Christmas, Fla." Some persons desired complete authenticity for their Christmas cards and asked that they be remailed from here to Santa Claus, Ind., for further postmarking.

This is the only postoffice named Christmas in the United States. The town is 102 years old, having survived attacks from hostile Indians and severe battles during the Civil War. The town was held for a time by the Union army during the Civil War.

Then the Postoffice Department attempted to eliminate postal status of the town, but combined protests of Christmas residents, stamp collectors and the Florida Congressional delegation staved off the threatened oblivion.

Although the crop of mail is a bumper, Postmistress Juanita Tucker is having an easier time of it than she has in the past. For one thing she has a postoffice building. For another, she has an electric stamping machine and cancellation machine. Previously, she had to do all the work by hand, and never did she get through a Christmas season without having to call in help.

People who want to be different are sending packages here, accompanied by letters and stamp money, and asking that they be rewrapped and sent to friends. Packages make up most of the mail. Greeting cards rank second. Letters are last.

Last year, more than 700-0 pieces of mail—a record for Christmas—were cancelled. This year, Miss Tucker expects to break that record. Judging from the present pile of mail, the European War is having little or no effect on her business, and tourists already coming South are coming off the beaten path to mail cards from Christmas.

Christmas boasts first of its name; second of its sculptor—Hughette Wheeler, the only man of his trade ever to do a three-quarter statue of the late humorist, Will Rogers, astride his horse.

Wheeler is typical of the cow-punchers who inhabit this community.

Chamberlain, at 70, Glutton For Work

(By International News Service) LONDON, Dec. 9.—Seventy-year-old Premier Neville Chamberlain is a glutton for work.

Besides answering questions addressed to him as Prime Minister he has for some time past answered for the foreign office. Now, in order to enable W. S. Morrison to give his whole time to the ministry of food, Premier Chamberlain has undertaken to answer in the house of commons for the ministry for the co-ordination of defense.

The strain of wartime has not affected the Premier. His health is good and his energy undiminished, but his close friends fear that he may place too many burdens upon his own shoulders before the war is over.

TULARE, Calif.—Blackbirds are giving yeomen service to sheep raisers here. The birds perch either on the back or the head of the sheep and eat ticks or other parasites out of the sheep's wool. The sheep show no concern.

Pride of Finland's Tiny Navy

Nearest thing that Finland has to a capital ship in her tiny navy is the Vainamoinen (above), a coastal defense vessel of 3,900 tons. She and a sister ship, five submarines, some motor torpedo boats and minor auxiliary craft make up the entire Finnish fleet. It faced an overwhelming assignment as the entire Soviet Baltic fleet was ordered into action in Russia's undeclared war on the tiny republic.

Christmas Toyland Goes Light-Hearted In Tempo

(By United Press) NEW YORK—Light-hearted games will prevail this Christmas, according to early inspections of toyland, and Santa Claus is expected to carry a $30,000,000 pack.

The weight of anxiety in a war-torn world apparently has stimulated American enthusiasm for parlor sports which require a minimum of brain strain and ignore real life problems.

Perhaps "Centack," a gay, match-making game that has nothing to do with army communiques, is one of the new fads that is typical of Americans' desires to black out their worries with fireside fun. It is played with bright colored triangles and match numbers that are multiples of five.

"Quick Wit" is another Christmas fad that is designed to make players forget the international situation. It's a quiz game played with cards.

Made For Entire Family

These games and most of the other parlor fads this season are easy enough for the school age youngsters to master and are well adapted for play that includes all the family.

"Casman's Luck" is one of the new games that is typical this year. Each player gets a small wooden fishing rod which has a suction cup decorated with bright red feathers attached at the end of the line. The player casts at a board decorated with bright colored fish, each listed as a certain number of pounds. The player who lands the biggest poundage wins.

"Shyshoot" is another marksmanship game. The board has a parachute attached to it. The player takes aim with a gun that shoots rubber bands. When the target is hit, the chute rises. The one who raises the most parachutes wins.

"Sorry" is another easy game which uses cards to continue board moves. There's a point scoring version.

How endlessly they had danced! "Eye, Bye, Blackbird!"

She had been tireless, enthralled. "Do, Do, Do What You Done Before, Baby!"

On a little bit of dance-floor that was growing tinner by the minute, Tarry would be carolling: "I'm Knee-Deep in Daisies, and Head-Over-Heels in Love!"

NAVY DIRIGIBLE BROKEN APART

Once Proud Los Angeles Is Junked To Aid Scientists

(By United Press)

LLAKEHURST, N. J., Dec. 9.—The decommissioned navy dirigible Los Angeles will be piles of junk within a month. The once queenly ship is being sacrificed to science.

The former ZR-3 brought here from Germany where it was built in 1924, is undergoing a series of experiments designed to aid in building lighter-than-air craft. The final test made on the craft will be complete demolition.

The dirigible's nose torn out by force to test the strength of light aluminum alloy girders, the fabric covering torn away for inspection, the giant maul of the air lies awaiting the final experiment—the tearing apart with weights of the skeleton to test the strength of girders under pressure.

Wind Tests Made

Commander Jesse L. Kenworthy said the ship had been undergoing tests for several months. It has been repainted, the parts dismantled and reconstructed, hauled on the airfield for wind-resistance tests.

The navy department recently authorized dismantling of the ship, which has been in the hangar here since July, 1932, when it was decommissioned after eight years of service.

The dirigible, which has been viewed by many thousands of visitors at the air station, cannot be seen now because orders to close the field to the public went out shortly after the outbreak of war in Europe.

From German Reparations

Built in Germany in 1924 as part of Germany's reparations payment to the United States, the Los Angeles was flown here by Dr. Hugo Eckener, renowned German designer and authority on lighter-than-air craft.

On Nov. 25, 1924, the ship was christened by the first lady of the land, Mrs. Grace Coolidge, and started on its life trip of more than 140,000 miles.

The Los Angeles has been used throughout its life for experiments by the navy. It was the first lighter-than-air craft to be used in an experiment to hook airplanes to its underside.

With it, at various times on their visits to this country, have been berthed the German ships Hindenburg and Graf Zeppelin, which exploded and was destroyed while landing May 6, 1937.

This is the only postoffice named Christmas in the United States. The town is 102 years old, having survived attacks from hostile Indians and severe battles during the Civil War. The town was held for a time by the Union army during the Civil War.

Post Office

Then the Postoffice Department attempted to eliminate postal status of the town, but combined protests of Christmas residents, stamp collectors and the Florida Congressional delegation staved off the threatened oblivion.

Although the crop of mail is a bumper, Postmistress Juanita Tucker is having an easier time of it than she has in the past. For one thing she has a postoffice building. For another, she has an electric stamping machine and cancellation machine. Previously, she had to do all the work by hand, and never did she get through a Christmas season without having to call in help.

People who want to be different are sending packages here, accompanied by letters and stamp money, and asking that they be rewrapped and sent to friends. Packages make up most of the mail. Greeting cards rank second. Letters are last.

New Record Expected

Last year, more than 70,000 pieces of mail—a record for Christmas—were cancelled. This year, Miss Tucker expects to break that record. Judging from the present pile of mail, the European War is having little or no effect on her business, and tourists already coming South are coming off the beaten path to mail cards from Christmas.

Christmas boasts first of its name; second of its sculptor—Hughlette Wheeler, the only man of his trade ever to do a three-quarter statue of the late humorist, Will Rogers, astride his horse.

Wheeler is typical of the cowpunchers who inhabit this community.

Chamberlain, at 70, Glutton For Work

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Seventy-year-old Premier Neville Chamberlain is a glutton for work.

Besides answering questions addressed to him as Prime Minister he has for some time past answered for the foreign office. Now, in order to enable W. S. Morrison to give his whole time to the ministry of food, Premier Chamberlain has undertaken to answer in the house of commons for the ministry for the co-ordination of defense.

The strain of wartime has not affected the Premier. His health is good and his energy undiminished, but his close friends fear that he may place too many burdens upon his own shoulders before the war is over.

TULARE, Calif.—Blackbirds are giving yeomen service to sheep raisers here. The birds perch either on the back or the head of the sheep and eat ticks or other parasites out of the sheep's wool. The sheep show no concern.

They'd had lots of fun together. . . . He'd taught her to ride.

Moira in this ecstasy that seized him periodically. Or, if he thought of her at all, it was as being in the home of school-friends, or asleep in her bed on the floor below, long since.

How endlessly they had danced! "Eye, Bye, Blackbird!"

She had been tireless, enthralled. "Do, Do, Do What You Done Before, Baby!"

On a little bit of dance-floor that was growing tinner by the minute, Tarry would be carolling: "I'm Knee-Deep in Daisies, and Head-Over-Heels in Love!"

Pride of Finland's Tiny Navy

Nearest thing that Finland has to a capital ship in her tiny navy is the Vainamoinen (above), a coastal defense vessel of 3,900 tons. She and a sister ship, five submarines, some motor torpedo boats and minor auxiliary craft make up the entire Finnish fleet. It faced an overwhelming assignment as the entire Soviet Baltic fleet was ordered into action in Russia's undeclared war on the tiny republic.

Christmas Toyland Goes Light-Hearted In Tempo

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Light-hearted games will prevail this Christmas, according to early inspections of toyland, and Santa Claus is expected to carry a $30,000,000 pack.

The weight of anxiety in a war-torn world apparently has stimulated American enthusiasm for parlor sports which require a minimum of brain strain and ignore real life problems.

Perhaps "Contact," a say, match-making game that has nothing to do with army communications, is one of the new fads that is typical of Americans' desires to black out their worries with fire-side fun. It is played with bright colored triangles and match numbers that are multiples of five.

"Quick Wit" is another Christmas fad that is designed to make players forget the international situation. It's a quiz game played with cards.

Made For Entire Family

These games and most of the other parlor fads this season are easy enough for the school age youngsters to master and are well adapted for play that includes all the family.

"Fisherman's Luck" is one of the new games that is typical this year. Each player gets a small wooden fishing rod which has a suction cup decorated with bright red feathers attached at the end of the line. The player casts at a board decorated with bright colored fish, each listed as a certain number of pounds. The player who lands the biggest poundage wins.

"Skyshoot" is another marksmanship game. The board has a parachute attached to it. The player takes aim with a gun that shoots rubber bands. When the target is hit, the chute rises. The one who raises the most parachutes wins.

"Sorry" is another easy game which uses cards to continue board moves. There's a point scoring version especially for adults. "Pinning the Nose on Pinocchio" is a 1939 version of the time-honored Donkey Tail.

Sports In Miniature

Almost all the favorite outdoor sports have miniature counterparts in 1939 equipment for fire-side fun. The strategy of baseball, football, polo, hockey, golf and badminton all have Tom Thumb versions for indoors. Even ski jumping has been translated into a parlor competition.

Chinese checker games continue to be popular and there are dozens of modern adaptations of anagrams, tiddlywinks, jacks and other gay '30s favorites.

Radio quiz programs have inspired a variety of parlor counterparts. G-men and traffic hazards have been utilized in other fire-side game showings. Bowling and croquet have indoor versions. There are dozens of variations of the rubber-tipped dart games.

"The yearning of all Americans for an improved standard of living is reflected in the toys, many of which are purposeful replicas of the American way of life," said James L. Fri, managing director of the toy manufacturers' organization. "The industry has made great progress in testing methods which increase both the fun and the educational value of the toys. 'Learn by doing' is the slogan of the modern toyland; and 'what can a child do with it?' is the test of each toy's value."

SIX JUNIORS RECEIVE BERTHS ON ALL-AMERICA

Michigan Backfield Ace, Harmon, Ranked Most Spectacular Of Juniors

South Places Five Players On All-America To Stop Middle West Dominance Of Honor Team; Selection Of Ends Difficult Task

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—There's a gridiron adage which says college players hit their competitive peak in their junior year. They no longer make the errors of sophomores and they have more spirit and drive than seniors.

This football axiom was borne out fully during the past thrill-packed season for six players on the 15th annual Associated Press All-America team, announced today on a basis of a nationwide survey of expert opinion, are juniors. The other five are seniors.

In no other year, since the Associated Press began its all-star selections in 1925, have juniors ousted the more experienced seniors for a plurality of All-America berths.

Dixie likely produced a larger crop of excellent backs than any other territory and the best of the southern lot was tall, rawboned Banks McFadden. This 6-foot-3 Clemson halfback, an exceptionally talented passer and runner, stood out even more as a long-distance, accurate punter.

John Kimbrough was so fast that he was used on sweeps in addition to the traditional plunging duties of a fullback. He apparently had no weaknesses. A terrific blocker and a stand-out defensive ace on the strong Texas Aggies team, Kimbrough was possibly the most powerful back in the country.

Debate Over Ends
After the torrid backfield argument, the closest debate came over the end positions and Severin and Kerr drew their nominations only by the slightest of margins over Louisiana State's Ken Kavanaugh, Ohio State's Esco Sarkkinen, Penn's Harlan Gustafson and Oklahoma's Frank Ivy.

It has become almost traditional for Notre Dame to spring up with fine flankmen and Bud Kerr carried on this season. Although rated an unusually good offensive performer, it was particularly on the defensive that Kerr shone. An example of his alert, opportunist style of play came in the Carnegie game when he snatched a mid-air fumble and scored the Irish's touchdown.

It was Severin who caught both of North Carolina's last period touchdowns to tie Tulane and who was largely responsible for the triumph over Penn. Like Kerr, Severin displayed defensive skill of an exceptional degree.

Powerful Guards
The guards come from two of the nation's best power teams, Tennessee and Southern California. Molinski of Tennessee, a 187-pounder of Polish extraction, caught the eye of southern observers with his alert and effective play and outscored his better-known teammate, Bob Snodgrass, who was hobbled by injuries.

The "Trojan" Harry (Blackjack) Smith was a standout on the coast a year ago and, after a lazy start, came with a rush this season to reach his peak in the vital game with Notre Dame.

Probably the top tackle of the campaign was Tulane's mastodon, Harley McCollum, a 235-pounder who reached up 6 feet 5 inches. McCollum rated top billing along with Cornell's Nick Drahos. Some observers ranked McCollum as the best tackle in southern history, an effective giant on the offense and defense.

Drahos, the only carryover veteran in Cornell's strong young line, was an aggressive worker all the way and one who rose to his best in the major games with Ohio State and Princeton.

The far west contributed the first team center in 220-pound John Schiehl of Santa Clara, whose defensive ability and strong downfield blocking may be traced to his high school experience as a fullback. Schiehl played in every game during his three-year varsity career and finished with a record of never having made a bad pass.

Perhaps the most spectacular of the juniors who emerged to challenge and overtake their upper-class rivals was Michigan's Thomas Harmon, who put on the most eye-filling one-man show the Middle West had seen since Harold (Red) Grange ran wild back in the Twenties.

Another Standout
Another was the 210-pound fullback, John Kimbrough, who cracked opposing forward walls wide open to lead the Texas Aggies to their most fruitful season in many years. Four stalwart linemen complete the junior group: North Carolina's Paul Severin and end; Tulane's Harley McCollum and

BOWLING RESULTS

Winning two out of three games with the Church Budget, Grate Recreation ladies moved to within one game of first place in the Grate Ladies' league last night. While the Recreation ladies were winning two games, the leading Endres-Gross Florists were losing two out of three heats with Kaufman's. The Unknowns continued to hold third place, remaining one game behind Grate Recreation as they took two games from the Sunny Beauty Shoppe. Other matches gave Smith's Garage two wins over Brownie's, Finney's Beauty Shoppe a pair of victories over Jean Frocks and the Sinclairs three wins over the Trades Class on a forfeit.

Highest series of the night was turned in by Patterson of Finney's Beauty Shoppe who hit 507 on games of 158, 176 and 173. Meissner's Service posted three wins over the Sanitary Shippers to move into a tie for first place in the Federal league at the Masonic temple alleys.

The Meissner five is deadlocked with the Ohio Edison Dodgers, who won two out of three games with the Sanitary Foremen. In other Federal league matches, Brownie's Service swept three games from the National Brass & Copper and the Eagles won two out of three games with the K. of C.

Leetonia Meets Palmyra Monday
LEETONIA, Dec. 9.—Coach S. W. Hale announced today that Leetonia High school's basketball team will face Palmyra at Leetonia Monday night rather than Tuesday as originally scheduled.

Orvil shot his 700 score in 1913 on alleys operated by George Gregoris, during his perfect game while bowling against a professional who was touring the country and bowling for money at that time. Hoover was challenged to the match, and was just as surprised as the spectators who he posted a 300 score to defeat the professional who hit 236. Hoover's feat was recalled Wednesday when Tom Reese, another veteran Salem bowler, cracked out a 300 in a practice game at the Masonic temple alleys. Reese's 300

Salem Saxons Play First Home Game Here Tonight
Seek First Victory In Contest With Youngstown Team; Girls Meet In Preliminary

Defeated at Monaca, Pa., last week in their first start of the 1939-40 basketball season, the Salem Junior Saxons will be seeking their initial victory when they face Youngstown Saxons in their first home game at the Memorial building tonight.

Coach Andy Filip is expected to start Mike Linder and Johnny Ulrich at forwards, Rudy Schuster at center and Matt Wagner and Mike Spack at guards.

Fresh from a victory over Farrell, Pa., the Youngstown Saxons will be out to keep their 1939-40 record unmarred. The Steel City team is considered one of the strongest in the Transylvanian Junior Saxon league this season.

The Salem quintet dropped a close decision in its first game, losing to Monaca, 32-31. The Pennsylvanians scored the winning goal in the last few seconds of play.

The Salem Saxons girls, who launched their 1939-40 season by defeating Monaca, will face Youngstown lassies in the preliminary game, starting at 7 o'clock. The boys game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Coach John Herman will probably use Jo Adams, Helen Pauline, Tille Linder, Mary Wagner and Jennie Fisher in the Salem lineup. Following the games, the visiting teams will be entertained at a banquet and dance at the German hall on Railroad st. The dance is open to the public.

MacFayden Added To Pirates' Staff
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9.—Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates is confident he will find Right-hander Danny MacFayden a valuable member of his staff, especially in the role of a rescue man and possibly as a starting pitcher.

The veteran slubman was obtained from the Boston Bees yesterday in exchange for Pitcher Will Swift and some cash. Neither had a good season this year, the 33-year-old Danny winning eight and losing 14 and Swift, 32, taking five and dropping seven.

Far West Stars Dominate Little All-America Team

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The far west, boasting an unusual crop of strong small-college football teams, contributes three men to the 1939 "Little All-America" compiled by the Associated Press.

O. the remaining eight first-team berths, the south, east and mid-west contribute two each, and the Rocky mountain and southwest sections one apiece.

For the most part, these small-college all-stars were scarcely known beyond their own immediate geographical territory but their records indicate they could hold their own in any football campaign.

Ohio Conference Opposes Naming Sports Champions; Dr. Douglas Heads League

Colleges Vote Against Bestowing Crowns On Teams Which Lead In Various Athletic Events; Continue Cross Country

WESTERVILLE, Dec. 9.—Reaffirming its stand against naming major sports champions, the Ohio Athletic conference left the honor—and headache—of bestowing crowns up to sports writers.

"The press declares the champions anyway, and will continue to do so regardless of any conference action," asserted R. J. Kutler of Kenyon college in leading opposition to the change at the league's winter meeting here last night.

Members voted 31 to 3 against a resolution passed by a simple majority at their spring session calling for designation of football, basketball and baseball champions. Conference rules require a two-thirds affirmative vote in the event of protests.

Dr. M. S. Douglas of Case was named conference president for a two-year term and Dr. J. J. Smith of Muskingum, vice president. Athletic managers, meeting in conjunction with the conference, elected Bill Bernlohr of Capital as their president and Stu Holcomb of Muskingum, vice president.

Plan Spring Meeting
The league's spring meeting will be held at Bowling Green May 21, opening day of the two-day Big Six track meet. Other loop meets scheduled May 24-25 were tennis at Oberlin and golf at Toledo.

The conference swimming meet March 1-2 was shifted from Akron to Bowling Green because of a larger pool there, members said. The cross-country meet, which will be at Oberlin, Wooster, Ashland, Bowling Green, Muskingum, Findlay, Mt. Union and Case.

Wilmington college's expected application for conference membership was not offered because members reported, the school does not belong to the North-Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as required of league members.

Football schedules for 1940, with the exception of Findlay, John Carroll, Kent, Toledo and Wittenberg, were announced.

WARNING FAILS TO STOP FIGHT
Armstrong To Risk Suspension By Appearing In Cleveland Show

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight boxing champion, said today he would go through with his Monday title fight here with Jimmy Garlison, of Kansas City, in spite of a warning from the New York state athletic commission.

The New York board, which decided to take no action until after the fight, probably will consider his suspension then.

The Negro title will box on the Cleveland News Christmas fund card, which also includes a world's championship bout between Al Hostak, of Seattle, middleweight, and Eric Seelig, of New York.

Informed the New York board had refused him permission, Armstrong said: "I'll have to fight on my own permission. I'm not moving out of a benefit show for the poor kids of Cleveland at this date."

Forget Good Deed
"I guess General Phelan (commission chairman) forgets that because of his request I went into a benefit fight in New York with Lew Feldman with two bad hands. It was for the benefit of the family of Charlie Lynch, a New York ring official, and I was glad to do it for the general."

Armstrong was to have defended his title against lightweight King Jim Ambers in New York Dec. 1, but pulled out because of illness and the bout was cancelled.

The New York board recommended that Armstrong take a week's rest and then report back for a checkup. The champion said today he was in top shape.

He is scheduled to defend his title again Jan. 24 in New York City against Pedro Montanez.

SIX JUNIORS RECEIVE BERTHS ON ALL-AMERICA

Michigan Backfield Ace, Harmon, Ranked Most Spectacular Of Juniors

South Places Five Players On All-America To Stop Middle West Dominance Of Honor Team; Selection Of Ends Difficult Task

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—There's a gridiron adage which says college players hit their competitive peak in their junior year. They no longer make the errors of sophomores and they have more spirit and drive than seniors.

This football axiom was borne out fully during the past thrill-packed season for six players on the 15th annual Associated Press All-America team, announced today on a basis of a nationwide survey of expert opinion, are juniors. The other five are seniors.

In no other year, since the Associated Press began its all-star selections in 1925, have juniors ousted the more experienced seniors for a plurality of All-America berths.

Dixie likely produced a larger crop of excellent backs than any other territory and the best of the southern lot was tall, raw-boned Banks McFadden. This 6-foot-3 Clemson halfback, an exceptionally talented passer and runner, stood out even more as a long-distance, accurate punter.

John Kimbrough was so fast that he was used on sweeps in addition to the traditional plunging duties of a fullback. He apparently had no weaknesses. A terrific blocker and a stand-out defensive ace on the strong Texas Aggies team, Kimbrough was possibly the most powerful back in the country.

After the torrid backfield argument, the closest debate came over the end positions and Severin and Kerr drew their nominations only by the slightest of margins over Louisiana State's Ken Kavanaugh, Ohio State's Esco Sarkkinen, Penn's Harlan Gustafson and Oklahoma's Frank Ivy.

It has become almost traditional for Notre Dame to spring up with fine flankers and Bud Kerr carried on this season. Although rated an unusually good offensive performer, it was particularly on the defensive that Kerr shone. An example of his alert, opportunistic style of play came in the Carnegie game when he snatched a mid-air fumble and scored the Irish's touchdown.

It was Severin who caught both of North Carolina's last period touchdowns to the Tulane and who was largely responsible for the triumph over Penn. Like Kerr, Severin displayed defensive skill of an exceptional degree.

Powerful Guards
The guards came from two of the nation's best power teams, Tennessee and Southern California. Mollinski of Tennessee, a 187-pounder of Polish extraction, caught the eye of southern observers with his alert and effective play and outshone his better-known teammate, Bob Suffridge, who was hobbled by injuries.

The Trojans' Harry (Blackjack) Smith was a standout on the coast a year ago and, after a lazy start, came with a rush this season to reach his peak in the vital game with Notre Dame.

Probably the top tackle of the campaign was Tulane's mastodon, Harley McCollum, a 235-pounder who reached up 6 feet 5 inches. McCollum rated top billing along with Cornell's Nick Drahos. Some observers ranked McCollum as the best tackle in southern history, an effective giant on the offense and defense.

Drahos, the only carryover veteran in Cornell's strong young line, was an aggressive worker all the way and one who rose to his best in the major games with Ohio State and Princeton.

The far west contributed the first team center, 220-pound John Schiechl of Santa Clara, whose defensive ability and strong downfield blocking may be traced to his high school experience as a fullback. Schiechl played in every game during his three-year varsity career and finished with a record of never having made a bad pass.

Perhaps the most spectacular of the juniors who emerged to challenge and overtake their upper-class rivals was Michigan's Thomas Harmon, who put on the most eye-filling one-man show the Middle West had seen since Harold (Red) Grange ran wild back in the Twenties.

Another Standout
Another was the 210-pound fullback, John Kimbrough, who cracked open the Texas Aggie's wide open to lead the Texas Aggies to their most fruitful season in many years. Four starward linemen complete the junior group: North Carolina's Paul Severin at end; Tulane's Harley McCollum and

High Bowling Scores Are No Novelty To Hoover Brothers

High bowling scores are no novelty to George and Orvil Hoover, brothers who bowl regularly in Salem leagues.

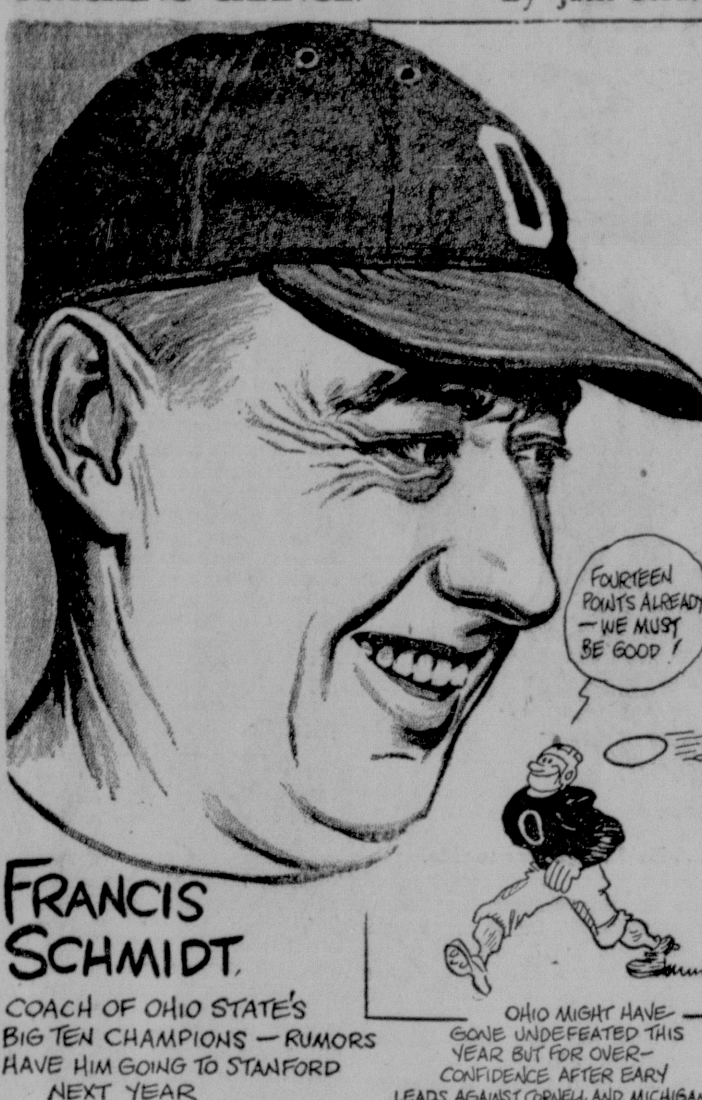

George, a resident of Columbiana and sponsor of the Columbiana Firestone team which won the booster championship in the American Bowling Congress tournament at Cleveland last year, recently rolled the highest three-game score recorded in Salem leagues this season, turning in a 682 series at the Grate Recreation alleys.

But George still has a long way to go before equalling the record of his brother, Orvil, who is known when he posted a 300 score to roll a perfect game on local alleys.

Orvil shot his 300 score in 1913 on alleys operated by George Gregoris, firing his perfect game while bowling against a professional who was touring the country and bowling for money at that time. Hoover was challenged to the match, and was just as surprised as the spectators who nipped posted a 300 score to defeat the professional who hit 236.

Hoover's feat was recalled Wednesday when Tom Reese, another veteran Salem bowler, cracked out a 300 in a practice game at the Masonic temple alleys. Reese's score of 300 was a gold mine of value.

COACHING CHANGE? - - - By Jack Sords

Salem Saxons Play First Home Game Here Tonight

Seek First Victory In Contest With Youngstown Team; Girls Meet In Preliminary

Defeated at Monaca, Pa., last week in their first start of the 1939-40 basketball season, the Salem Saxons will be seeking their initial victory when they face Youngstown Saxons in their first home game at the Memorial building tonight.

Coach Andy Filp is expected to start Mike Linder and Johnny Ulrich at forwards, Rudy Schuster at center and Matt Wagner and Mike Spack at guards.

Fresh from a victory over Farrell, Pa., the Youngstown Saxons will be out to keep their 1939-40 record unmarred. The Steel City team is considered one of the strongest in the Transylvanian Junior Saxon league this season.

The Salem quintet dropped a close decision in its first game, losing to Monaca, 32-31. The Pennsylvanians scored the winning goal in the last few seconds of play.

The Salem Saxons girls, who launched their 1939-40 season by defeating Monaca, will face Youngstown lassies in the preliminary game, starting at 7 o'clock. The boys game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Coach John Herman will probably use Jo Adams, Helen Pauline, Tillie Lindner, Mary Wagner and Jennie Fisher in the Salem lineup.

Following the games, the visiting teams will be entertained at a banquet and dance at the German hall on Railroad st. The dance is open to the public.

MacFayden Added To Pirates' Staff
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9.—Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates is confident he will find Right-hander Danny MacFayden a valuable member of his staff, especially in the role of a rescue man and possibly as a starting pitcher.

The veteran slabbaw was obtained from the Boston Bees yesterday in exchange for Pitcher Will Swift and some cash. Neither had a good season this year, the 33-year-old Danny winning eight and losing 14 and Swift, 32, taking five and dropping seven.

Champion Now
One thing is certain: The judge is champion now and riding higher than ever since he accepted the chair after the "black Sox" scandal. He heard no argument at yesterday's meeting and it took him only 40 minutes to race through the amendments offered.

The meeting finally produced a rash of trading before the delegates left town last night. The consensus was that the most important deal of the week was the one in which the champion Cincinnati Reds bolstered their pitching staff by obtaining Jim Turner from Boston for Les Scarsella and cash.

The Boston Red Sox strengthened their infield reserve by purchasing Marvin Owen from Chicago.

The Boston Bees swapped Pitcher Danny MacFayden to Pittsburgh for another veteran flinger, Bill Swift, and cash. The White Sox sent Outfielder Rip Radcliff to the St. Louis Browns for Julius Solters and cash. The deal that would make Rip Fraynor, former Pittsburgh manager, a coach at Brooklyn still was hanging fire.

The Philadelphia Athletics traded Wally Moses, outfielder, to Detroit for Benny McCoy, second baseman, and George Coffman, relief pitcher.

Empty-Handed
CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—Officials of the Cleveland Indians returned from the Cincinnati baseball meeting empty-handed today in so far as new players go. But Vice President C. C. Slapnicka indicated the club still expected to swap Catcher Frankie Pytlak.

Several bids for the mite backstop were received, but Slapnicka believes the league's shortage of catchers will bring more attractive offers later.

Adkins, Marshall end, and Hunt and Morlock, Marshall Backs, were also given honorable mention.

Ohio Conference Opposes Naming Sports Champions; Dr. Douglas Heads League

Colleges Vote Against Bestowing Crowns On Teams Which Lead In Various Athletic Events; Continue Cross Country

WESTERVILLE, Dec. 9.—Reaffirming its stand against naming major sports champions, the Ohio Athletic conference left the honor—and headache—of bestowing crowns up to sports writers.

"The press declares the champions anyway, and will continue to do so regardless of any conference action," asserted R. J. Kutler of Kenyon college in leading opposition to the change at the league's winter meeting here last night.

Members voted 31 to 3 against a resolution passed by a simple majority at their spring session calling for designation of football, basketball and baseball champions.

Conference rules require a two-thirds affirmative vote in the event of protests.

Dr. M. S. Douglas of Case was named conference president for a two-year term and Dr. J. J. Smith of Muskingum, vice president. Athletic managers, meeting in conjunction with the conference, elected Bill Bernlohr of Capital as their president and Stu Holsh of Muskingum, vice president.

Plan Spring Meeting
The league's spring meeting will be held at Bowling Green May 24, opening day of the two-day Big Six track meet. Other loop meets scheduled May 24-25 were tennis at Oberlin and golf at Toledo.

The conference swimming meet March 1-2 was shifted from Akron to Bowling Green because of a larger pool there, members said. The cross-country meet will be at Oberlin, Wooster, Ashland, Bowling Green, Muskingum, Findlay, Mt. Union and Case.

Wilmington college's expected application for conference membership was not offered because members reported, the school does not belong to the North-Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as required of league members.

Football schedules for 1940, with the exception of Findlay, John Carroll, Kent, Toledo and Wittenberg, were announced.

Warning Fails To Stop Fight
CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight boxing champion, said today he would go through with his Monday title fight here with Jimmy Garçon, of Kansas City, in spite of a warning from the New York state athletic commission.

The New York board, which decided to take no action until after the fight, probably will consider his suspension then.

The Negro title fight will box on the Cleveland News Christmas fund card, which also includes a world's championship bout between Al Hostak, of Seattle, middleweight king, and Eric Seelig, of New York.

Informed the New York board had refused him permission, Armstrong said: "I'll have to fight on my own permission. I'm not moving out of a benefit show for the poor kids of Cleveland at this date."

Forgets Good Deed
"I guess General Phelan (commission chairman) forgets that because of his request I went into a benefit fight in New York with Lew Feldman with two bad hands. It was for the benefit of the family of Charlie Lynch, a New York ring official, and I was glad to do it for the general."

Armstrong was to have defended his title against lightweight king Lou Ambers in New York Dec. 1, but pulled out because of illness and the bout was cancelled.

The New York board recommended that Armstrong take a week's rest, and then report back for a checkup. The champion said today he was in top shape.

He is scheduled to defend his title again Jan. 24 in New York City against Pedro Montañez.

Plan Rifle Shoot At Country Club
A muzzle-loading rifle shoot will be held Sunday at the new rifle range at the Salem Country club. O. F. Birkhimer, caretaker, announced today.

Chickens will be awarded to winners in the shoot.

Far West Stars Dominate Little All-America Team

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The far west, boasting an unusual crop of strong small-college football teams, contributes three men to the 1939 "Little All-America," compiled by the Associated Press.

Of the remaining eight first-team berths, the south, east and middle west contribute two each, and the Rocky mountain and southwest sections one apiece.

For the most part, these small-college all-stars were scarcely known beyond their own immediate geographical territory but their records indicate they could hold their own in any football company.

The Little All-America:
Quarterback—Plyer and Colleg.
Halfback—Sherrill Pusy, Troy (Ala.)
Fullback—Jack Gregory, Chattanooga
Tackle—Marion Rogers, M'ville (Mo.)
Guard—Clyde T. Rorer, H'nd (N.C.)
End—Frank Loughner, Lassell (Pa.)
Linebacker—Mike Kostuk, Detroit Tech.
Defensive Back—Jack Mulvey, Fresno State
Offensive Back—Lloyd Maddox, Colorado Mines
Punter—Tom Hammett, Union (N.Y.)
Kicker—Tony Can-deo, Gonzaga
Specialist—Zimmerman, San Jose St.

SECOND TEAM
Ends: Neal Allen, Mercer, and Jim Reiser, Ohio Wesleyan; tackles, Paul De Bruhl, Newberry, and Marvin Katzenstein, Colorado Mines; guards, Dick Linder, Trinity (Conn.), and Stanley Radjunas, Morehead, Ky.; teachers: center, Ralph Schlosser, Gonzaga; backs, Tom Harding, Butler, Leo Wisneski, Central State (Mich.) teachers, Kenneth Heine-man, Texas School of Mines, and Joe Enzler, University of Portland.

Ohio players receiving honorable mention include: Evans, Muskingum, tackle; Fust, Dayton, tackle; Buckovich, Toledo, guard; Sheetz, Xavier, guard; backs: Bloom of Hiram, Lucas of Western Reserve, Padley of Dayton, Risaliti of Ohio university, and Zazula of Akron.

Adkins, Marshall end, and Hunt and Morlock, Marshall Backs, were also given honorable mention.

Norway Uses Subs to Enforce Neutrality

Three of Norway's small fleet of submarines draw up for inspection before setting out on neutrality patrol. The country angered Germany by intercepting the Nazi prize crew of the American City of Flint, when they put into neutral Bergen, and releasing the freighter. Despite the perilous situation, however, Norway continues to enforce her neutral rights.

Theatre Attractions

"First Love", comedy-romance at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, gives its star, Deanna Durbin, her first real screen sweetheart. Robert Stack plays opposite the young singer.

Others in the cast are Helen Parrish, who has been seen in three other Durbin films, Eugene Pallette, Lewis Howard, June Jolley, Leatrice Joy, silent film and stage star, Marica Mae Jones, Charles Coleman and Jack Mulhall, another silent film star.

The story gives Deanna the role of an orphan who makes her home with wealthy relatives. The "poor relative" and the young lady of the house have the misfortune to choose the same young bachelor to work their charms on.

And Deanna Sings

Deanna sings "One Fine Day", difficult lyric soprano aria from Puccini's opera, "Madame Butterfly", and three other less difficult songs in the picture.

One of the major productions of the year is "The Old Maid", featuring Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins, with George Brent, Donald Crisp, Jane Bryan, Louis Escanda, James Stephenson, Jerome Cowan, William Lundigan and Cecilia Loftus. The film will be seen at the State Wednesday and Thursday.

The Pulitzer prize play by Zoe Akins is given added depth and emotional appeal by the brilliant performances of Miss Davis, Miss Hopkins, Brent and young Miss Jane Bryan, who nearly takes the picture from its stars.

"The Cat and the Canary", mystery-comedy, brings Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard to the State on Friday and Saturday. Others in the film are John Beal, Douglas Montgomery, Gale Sondergaard, Elizabeth Patterson and George Zucco.

At the State for the last time tonight will be "Barricade", featuring Warner Baxter and Alice Faye.

At The Grand

The Grand's Sunday double bill will be "Beware Spooks!", a Joe E. Brown comedy; and "Calling All Marines", with Donald Barry, Helen Mack, Warren Hymer and Robert Kent. Mary Carlisle is the comedian's leading lady in the first film, a story of a cop who follows a dangerous criminal into a beach resort spook house to bring the escaping public enemy to justice. The second picture is a story of a gangster who joins the marines to steal government plans and becomes the nation's chief hero.

Wednesday's double bill at the Grand is "Call a Messenger", featuring the Dead End Kids, the Little Tough Guys, Mary Carlisle, Larry Crabbe, El Brendel, Robert

First Lady at Dies Hearing

I. I. N. Phonephoto

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sits next to William Hinkley, former chairman of the American Youth Congress, as she attends a hearing of the Dies Committee in Washington. She had hoped to hear Hinkley testify, but he was not called during her surprise visit. The A. Y. C., which the First Lady addressed last year, has been termed Communist by Dies witnesses. As she left, Mrs. Roosevelt said she would be willing to testify if called.

EDITOR URGES CLASSIC IDEAL

Laments Lack of Teaching As Training For Mind

SAN FRANCISCO—Old ideals of teaching must be restored if America is to escape the brutalizing effects of business go-getterism, in the opinion of William Wallace Chapin, San Francisco editor.

All America, including business itself, Chapin believes, already is suffering "from the dire consequences of the death of the higher mentalities which it is the aim of classical education to develop."

Writing in his weekly Argonaut, Chapin said the nation's higher welfare was dealt a fatal blow when "at instigation of big business," higher institutions of learning commercialized themselves by providing training instead of education.

"This raised up," Chapin added, "for the benefit of commercialism a monstrous regiment of clerks in place of scholars, and go-getters in place of philosophers."

Highest Wisdom Forgotten
"Our aristocrats, by degenerating into plutocrats, and sneering at the old classical education because it could not be made to pay dollars and cents, forgot that the highest wisdom has always known that it is not all of life to live, nor of death to die."

The old classical education might have been improved greatly along its own lines but, even at its worst, it made for health of mind and depth of thinking, and the evils of which everybody is now complaining, including the business men themselves, are the direct result of the death of the higher mentalities which it is the aim of education to develop.

"Business men, sunk in the meshes of a gross materialism, are unable to lift themselves out of the slough of despond which they have reached, and their clerks and go-getters, though college-trained, are unable to assist them. Business men who knew the works only by hearsay used to deplore the time wasted (as they thought) by youth who grappled with the Republic of Plato and the Politics of Aristotle, which were presumed to be more than 2,000 years behind the times."

Laments Lack of Vision
"It never occurred to them that the brightest youths, who had grappled with the greatest minds of the most intellectual people that have existed on our earth, might develop thereby a mentality capable of grappling with the gravest contemporary problems."

"We are far from contending that the old classical education conferred infallibility upon those who pursued it, but we maintain that it made for an immensely higher grade of mentality than is coming out of the schools today, or that has been coming out for a long period of time, and that it did, and can still, produce the expansion of mind which is requisite for the solution of all problems."

"If America is to be saved from the brutalizing effects of business materialism, as exemplified in the credo of go-getterism, yes, if business itself is to be saved for its legitimate purpose, and we are not to sink ever deeper and deeper in the quagmire of Bolshevism, Fascism and Nazism, the old ideals of teaching must be restored and adapted to modern conditions."

Indians Prove Apt In First Aid Work

WASHINGTON—Modern training in Red Cross First Aid is being taught Indians in 64 classes this year in reservations throughout the country, Harold F. Enlows, director of Red Cross First Aid and Life Saving Service, has announced.

He pointed out that Navajos, Sioux and Pueblos alike are learning the First Aid intricacies of what to do while the doctor is on the way. In the shadow of the wigwam or in the modern Indian schools, Red Cross instructors are teaching Indian First Aiders to check arterial bleeding, splint fractures and to give emergency care to shock, burn and asphyxiation sufferers. Classes are being conducted by the Red Cross in cooperation with the U. S. Indian Service, Mr. Enlows said.

Theatre Attractions

"First Love", comedy-romance at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, gives its star, Deanna Durbin, her first real screen sweetheart. Robert Stack plays opposite the young singer.

Others in the cast are Helen Parrish, who has been seen in three other Durbin films, Eugene Pallette, Lewis Howard, June Sorey, Lorraine Joy, silent film and stage star, Marcia Mae Jones, Charles Coleman and Jack Mulhall, another silent film star.

The story gives Deanna the role of an orphan who makes her home with wealthy relatives. The "poor relative" and the young lady of the house have the misfortune to choose the same young bachelor to work their charms on.

And Deanna Sings

Deanna sings "One Fine Day", difficult lyric soprano aria from Puccini's opera, "Madame Butterfly", and three other less difficult songs in the picture.

One of the major productions of the year is "The Old Maid", featuring Betty Davis and Miriam Hopkins, with George Brent, Donald Crisp, Jane Bryan, Louis Escanda, James Stephenson, Jerome Cowan, William Lundigan and Cecilia Loftus. The film will be seen at the State Wednesday and Thursday.

The Pulitzer prize play by Zoe Akins is given added depth and emotional appeal by the brilliant performances of Miss Davis, Miss Hopkins, Brent and young Miss Jane Bryan, who nearly takes the picture from its stars.

"The Cat and the Canary", mystery-comedy, brings Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard to the State on Friday and Saturday. Others in the film are John Beal, Douglass Montgomery, Gale Sondergaard, Elizabeth Patterson and George Zucco.

At the State for the last time tonight will be "Barricade", featuring Warner Baxter and Alice Faye.

At The Grand

The Grand's Sunday double bill will be: "Beware Spooks!", a Joe E. Brown comedy; and "Calling All Marines", with Donald Barry, Helen Mack, Warren Hymer and Robert Kent. Mary Carlisle is the comedian's leading lady in the first film, a story of a cop who follows a dangerous criminal into a beach resort spook house to bring the escaping public enemy to justice. The second picture is a story of a gangster who joins the marines to steal government plans and becomes the nation's chief hero.

Wednesday's double bill at the Grand is "Call a Messenger", featuring the Dead End Kids, the Little Tough Guys, Mary Carlisle, Larry Crabbe, El Brendel, Robert

EDITOR URGES CLASSIC IDEAL

Laments Lack of Teaching
As Training
For Mind

SAN FRANCISCO—Old ideals of teaching must be restored if America is to escape the brutalizing effects of business go-getterism, in the opinion of William Wallace Chapin, San Francisco editor.

All America, including business itself, Chapin believes, already is suffering "from the dire consequences of the dearth of the higher mentalities which it is the aim of classical education to develop." Writing in his weekly Argonaut, Chapin said the nation's higher wealth was dealt a fatal blow when "at instigation of big business," higher institutions of learning commercialized themselves by providing training instead of education.

"This raised up," Chapin added, "for the benefit of commercialism a monstrous regiment of clerks in place of scholars, and go-getters in place of philosophers."

Highest Wisdom Forgotten
"Our aristocracy, by degenerating into plutocrats, and sneering at the old classical education because it could not be made to pay dollars and cents, forgot that the highest wisdom has always known that it is not all of life to live, nor of death to die."

The old classical education might have been improved greatly along its own lines but, even at its worst, it made for health of mind and depth of thinking, and the evils of which everybody is now complaining, including the business men themselves, are the direct result of the dearth of the higher mentalities which it is the aim of education to develop.

"Business men, sunk in the meshes of a gross materialism, are unable to lift themselves out of the slough of despond which they have reached, and their clerks and go-getters, though college-trained, are unable to assist them. "Business men who knew the works only by hearsay used to deplore the time wasted (as they thought) by youth who grappled with the Republic of Plato and the Politics of Aristotle, which were presumed to be more than 2,900 years behind the times."

Laments Lack of Vision

"It never occurred to them that the brightest youths, who had grappled with the greatest minds of the most intellectual people that have existed on our earth, might develop thereby a mentality capable of grappling with the gravest contemporary problems."

"We are far from contending that the old classical education conferred infallibility upon those who pursued it, but we maintain that, if made for an immensely higher grade of mentality than is coming out of the schools today, or that has been coming out for a long period of time, and that it did, and can still, produce the expansion of mind which is requisite for the solution of all problems."

"If America is to be saved from the brutalizing effects of business materialism, as exemplified in the credo of go-getterism, yes, if business itself is to be saved for its legitimate purpose, and we are not to sink ever deeper and deeper in the quagmire of Bolshevism, Fascism and Nazism, the old ideals of teaching must be restored and adapted to modern conditions."
